BATAVIA, Feb. 21 (INS)—American and Dutch warships and planes tonight had sunk or damaged 17 enemy vessels, including a cruiser blown up and a big troop-laden transport destroyed in a gigantic sea battle still continuing off Java. Listed among enemy invasion fleet casualties since the engagement began late Thursday night were five cruisers, four destroyers and eight transport or supply ships. At least three Japanese naval fighter planes of the "Zero" type were shot down as against two lost by the United Nations, and at least two more enemy surface vessels were rocked by near-misses.

(Washington Naval authorities said United States destroyers and planes had sunk two enemy destroyers in one section of an invasion fleet.)

GIGANTIC SEA BATTLE OFF JAVA

American and Dutch aircraft and naval forces have combined to blast the Japanese in a major air-sea battle that began two days ago in narrow, shark-infested waters that surround Java. With American dive-bombers and flying fortresses taking part in the titanic struggle, Washington announced that two Japanese destroyers had been sunk with only slight damage to one American destroyer, a minor loss of personnel and loss of four planes.

Previously a Dutch communique declared Allied naval and air units striking with deadly savagery had blown up one Jap cruiser, sunk a large transport, and scored numerous direct bomb hits on other enemy warships, transport and supply vessels.

By ROBERT MAGIDOFF

The Red army reported today relentless advances on the northwestern, western and southwestern fronts with the liberation of further towns and villages and "extermination" of thousands of Germans.

The reports, however, adhered to the policy of not mentioning specific places, pending the issuance of a special roundup communique. One of these is expected soon.

The Moscow radio reported fierce fighting, with tremendous German losses, on a southwestern sector "where units under command of Kozlov and Minotnov are operating."

"Our troops occupied the inhabited locality of 'M' and killed 400 enemy officers and men," the radio said.

(The reference to Kozlov suggests that the southwestern sector to which the broadcaster referred was the Crimea.

(The British radio, heard by CBS in New York, said the Russians made new landings on the Crimea and were advancing against the port of Feodosiya.)

The Leningrad radio said Soviet forces had penetrated the first and second German lines before that second city of Russia and that German counterattacks were unsuccessful.

Captured medical reports were quoted by the Soviet information bureau as saying soldiers of the 339th German Infantry Regiment were extremely exhausted, and the implication was that cold and illness had handicapped other invasion units.

Reporting continued operations against the Germans overnight, the bureau said Soviet forces on the Leningrad front had destroyed 49 German blockhouses, 50 bridges and dugouts and many German gun positions and killed 1200 men during the past few days.

The bureau said Red army troops yesterday "waged stiff battles with the enemy, advanced farther and occupied several populated places," enemy infantry battalions, about 2400 men."

BATTLE OF BALI—Terrific fighting continued today around the island of Bali as the Japs kept trying to land forces on the little isle in the face of heavy Allied sea and aerial activity that accounted for nine Jap warships. Off Bali, the biggest naval battle of the war in the Far East was being fought. The Japs are fighting for the control of the eastward approaches to the great Dutch naval base, Soerabaja, 120 miles from the scene of action.

BRITISH HIT BACK HARD AT JAPS IN BURMA

•OFFICIAL NEWS

By M. M. HARDINGE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

British forces on the Burma front today were reported still counter-attacking grimly against swarms of Japanese to hold their strong points along the west bank of the Bilin River.

(A Rangoon dispatch to the London Daily Express said Chinese and other United Nations troops repulsed a Japanese infiltration into Mongyu, near the Burmese-Thai border.)

Fighting on the Bilin river sector continued after Japanese planes raided Mandalay, 350 miles north of Rangoon.

The latest Rangoon communique said "fierce fighting" had been raging for 24 hours "behind the Bilin river." The effect of the British counter-attacks was not revealed.

In their attack on Mandalay, it was stated, the Jap planes deliberately hammered the palaces of the ancient kings of Burma.

Unofficial reports received in Rangoon from the Bilin river battle front indicated that both sides were suffering heavy casualties in the savage fighting which was reported on both sides of the river.

Should the British be forced to give up their Bilin river line, their next river defense would be along the lengthy Sittang, which empties into the uppermost part of the gulf of Martaban.

U. S. air and naval units are participating i na great battle against a Japanese armada off Bali and have already conducted four devastating raids on the invaders. Sinking two enemy destroyers and scoring direct hits on other Japanese naval craft.

The War and Navy departments announced today in communiques that at least 38 U. S. bombers and Dutch ships and six of the Navy's swiftest destroyers are engaging the enemy in a co-ordinated effort with the forces of Australia and The Netherlands Indies.

The action marks the greatest aerial encounter in which the Army has taken part so far in this war.

The War Department said its planes had scored numerous hits, while the Navy reported that, along with Dutch warships, its destroyers had attacked the enemy and sent two Jap destroyers to the bottom with only one American vessel suffering damage.

One Japanese invasion fleet now being subjected to the bombs and shells of the United United Nations was reported by the War Department to consist of two cruisers, four or five destroyers and four troop-laden transports.

The Navy's 42nd communique today said:

ALLIES BLAST 9 WARSHIPS

Batavia, N. E. I.
Feb. 21 (AP)

•OFFICIAL NEWS

In a Java sea fight announced as the first Allied naval offensive in the Battle for the Indies, American and Dutch forces blew up one Japanese cruiser and seriously damaged another cruiser, two destroyers and other ships, the United Nations command declared today.

The announcement indicated that a third Japanese cruiser might have been hit, and reported direct heavy bomb hits on an unspecified number of other vessels—probably mostly transports.

(A Batavia radio announcement said one Allied destroyer had been lost after being struck by a torpedo, but this was not confirmed in the Dutch or United communiques of the naval action.)

Thus there was developing in the waters east of closely guarded Java and invasion-struck Bali, a naval battle greater than the fight for Makassar Strait.

ALLIES TAKE OFFENSIVE

A Dutch communique said the Allied striking force consisted of Netherlands cruisers and Netherlands and United States destroyers recently grouped under the command of Dutch Vice-Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich, a submarine expert and an exponent of this very type of offensive stab.

"Among the enemy ships," a supplement to the war report said, "there were also cruisers carrying guns of six inches."

The communique said it was the first time Dutch cruisers "engaged in offensive action," adding that "up to now they have been busy all the time with other duties."

United States and Dutch fighters, bombers and dive bombers also struck blows at invasion transports over a wide area from Bali on the east to Bangka strait off Sumatra to the west.

Another Tanker Lost; 20 Die in Flaming Oil

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—The sinking of the tanker Pan Massachusetts off the Atlantic coast Thursday afternoon by an enemy submarine was announced by the Navy today after the landing here of 18 survivors.

They told a harrowing story of their escape and the death of 20 fellow crewmen in an inferno of burning oil.

Capt. Robert E. Christy, 53-year-old sea veteran who lost the first ship of his career, said two torpedoes exploding in quick succession turned the ship into a mass of flames.

Capt. Christy of Corpus Christi, Tex., said shells also exploded on the ship after it was ablaze. But the submarine was not seen by any of the men who survived.

TELLS OF RESCUE

The survivors were picked up by a ship which Capt. Christy said was about five miles back when the Pan Massachusetts was torpedoed.

He declared the men on the rescue ship came to their assistance despite the danger of also being torpedoed.

The survivors were landed here yesterday afternoon, but the Navy withheld news of their arrival and of the sinking until today, presumably as a precaution for the safety of the rescue vessel.

The Pan Massachusetts, owned by the National Bulk Carriers, Inc., was the 21st ship officially announced as attacked in the current series of sinkings in North Atlantic coastal waters.

Others of the survivors told how some of the crew were burned to death on board before they could leap into the sea. Some died in the flaming oil that covered the water.

SURVIVORS BURNED

The first nine to come ashore looked as if they had been through a furnace. Their faces were seared, some were heavily bandaged and all had blankets wrapped around their shoulders. Every man walked up the landing ramp without assistance and climbed into the ambulances that took them to a hospital.

The other nine, including Capt. Christy, First Officer Alfred Carini, 58, Long Island City, N. Y., and Third Officer H. L. Dodge, 36, Baltimore, Md., were taken to a downtown hotel.

They related that the flames burned fiercely on the port side, but that a strong wind prevented spread of the blaze on the water on the starboard side.

"The ship was enveloped in

CAPTAIN'S OWN STORY OF SINKING BY U-BOAT

Capt. Robert E. Christy, 52, sea veteran who lost the first ship of his career with the sinking of the oil tanker Pan Massachusetts, gave this vivid description of the enemy action off the southeast coast.

By CAPT. ROBERT E. CHRISTY
OF TANKER PAN MASSACHUSETTS
Written for the Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 21—We went through three hours of hell out there and 20 fine men are dead in the sea, but I saw some real heroes on a rescue ship. I'm going back to the sea, as quickly as I can, out of respect for those who died and those who risked death to save us.

Two torpedoes exploded against our sides in rapid succession and instantly we were a mass of flames amidship. We had 50,000 barrels of gasoline and another 50,000 barrels of Diesel oil and kerosene aboard. The sea soon was afire for a half a mile or a mile around us as the gasoline and oil spread.

We had passed another ship fhich was about five miles back on the starboard quarter when we were torpedoed and set afire. Three or four shells exploded on us after we were ablaze.

The men on the ship behind us saw it all, yet they came to our rescue, launched boats and saved all who were alive. That is bravery!

LEAP MEANT CERTAIN DEATH

I was in my room when the torpedoes came. Instantly the doorway was framed with fire. There was no gasoline explosion, for our tanks were full and full tanks do not explode.

I tried to get out of a porthole, but it was too small. I got some heavy towels, wet them and wound them around my head, face and hands. I threw open my door and made my way forward.

I could see First Officer Alfred Carini and Third Officer H. L. Dodge at the bow of the ship with the radio officer, and made by way to them.

"Don't jump overboard," I told them. "You'll burn to death."

We talked the situation over, and got a heavy mooring line which we made fast and put the end over the bow. We waited until the bow was ecloar of flames, then slid down the line into the sea and swam hard to get away from the ship.

NAVY PLANE AIDS RESCUE

I thought there wasn't a chance for life. All our lifeboats burned. We had no idea any ship would brave a submarine attack on itself to come to our aid. But the men of that other ship came on.

Ten or 15-foot seas were running. The water was warm but a cold rain was falling. I was in the water about two hours before being pulled aboard a lifeboat.

Dodge, my third officer, from Baltimore, had no lifebelt. He found his clothes dragging him under so he stripped in the water, he told me later.

As said the rescue ship missed him although he shouted as loud he could. It went on about two miles. He gave himself up as lost, and then two Navy planes passed over.

Just after the planes passed the sea ap ship turned, made directly for him, a line was thrown and he was pulled aboard. Dodge believes the Navy fliers directed his rescue, and I think he is right.

Carini's experience was almost the same as mine.

The 20 men who were lost didn't have a chance.

Wife Speeds Hubby to War

New Alien Roundup Drive In California

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21 (AP)—Enemy aliens whom the Federal Bureau of Investigation consider potentially dangerous to the welfare of the United States were being taken into custody throughout northern California today.

More than 100 FBI agents, assisted by approximately 200 local officers, sheriff's deputies, and state highway patrolmen, led the far-flung raids on quarters occupied by the suspected aliens.

Nat Pieper, head of the San Francisco FBI office, said raids were under way in San Francisco and the Metropolitan Bay area, San Jose, Santa Cruz, Stockton, Sacramento, Monterey, Castroville, Salinas, Watsonville, Santa Rosa and Redding.

The new drive to rund up enemy aliens came on the heels of a demand that both American born and alien Japanese be sent to concentration camps. The demand was made after the Army had, by executive order, been given broad new authroity to set up areas from which anyone may be ousted.

MANPOWER DRAFT FOR INDUSTRY AS WELL AS ARMED FORCES SEEN

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Declaring this nation has arrived at the time when "nobody can refuse to work for the government," National Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey today predicted that the United States must inevitably resort to government allocation of man power to industry as well as to the armed forces.

International News Photograph Service

COMES THE WOODEN TIRE—Glen Conrad of Columbus, O., comes up with something new in tires . . . a wooden one. Holding a real honest-to-goodness rubber tire, he looks over the wooden substitute mounted on a truck wheel. Conrad says you can lumber along at 15 m. p. h. with it.

In one of the longest press conferences he has held, Gen. Hershey made it plain that he believes that the nation is on the verge of conscription of all manpower.

"You can't refuse to work for the government whether you run a corporation, a labor union or a farm," he said.

At the same time, Hershey, in commenting on a strike in a propeller plant at Freeport, L. I., indorsed the action of the local draft board there in reclassifying strikers so that they would be inducted into the Army.

CITES EXAMPLE

In predicting allotment of manpower, the draft director cited the airplane industry as an example.

"Say the airplane industry has to have 300,000 workers," he asserted. "Eventually we are going to say to them that a certain per cent of those workers must be women, that a certain percentage must be men over 45 not liable to military service, and then tell that industry how many men we can spare them of military age."

Hershey pointed out that eventually "we are going to have to move 10,000,000 men into war industries." He pointed out that there were only 60,000,000 persons in the country who can work and that "after that you can't cash any more checks."

The draft director stated that he was "frightened" by the prospect of trying to get men in war industries by raising wages. Rather, he said that inevitably there must be an allotment of all manpower.

Hershey spent most of a two-hour press conference explaining the action of the national draft headquarters in sending out memorandums to local boards saying that movie actors and technicians, labor leaders and farmers should be considered for deferment.

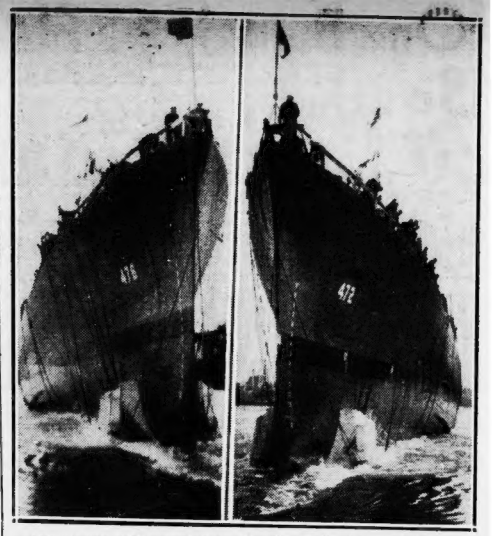
NO BLANKET DEFERMENTS

He emphasized that the memorandums did not mean blanket deferments and that each case must be decided on individual merit. Further, he expressed the opinion that few local boards, if any, would brave the reaction of the public by exempting top flight movie stars.

Hershey pointed out that the War Labor Board was created to arbitrate strikes and that he felt that labor should be bound to take its case up with the War Labor Board before striking.

Hershey was asked if a war manpower board would be created as suggested by Social Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt in memorandums to the President. He answered:

"We are all thinking of closer and closer contact between the users of manpower and the workers. If co-operation doesn't work then we will have to find something else."



TWO MORE FOR UNCLE SAM—The U. S. fleet gets two new additions as the destroyers Hutchins (left) and Guest are launched at the Charlestown Navy Yard. In addition to the launchings, navy yard workers were awarded the Navy's "E" pennant in recognition of their outstanding results in the production of ships vital to our war effort.

EWING GUILTY OF ATTACK ON GIRL, FACES 30 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A jury which deliberated about two hours convicted Orman W. Ewing, former Democratic national committeeman, from Utah, of attack o na young girl today, but did not recommend the death plenalty, asked by the prosecutor. Ewing faces a possible maximum sentence of 30 years.

Ewing was accused of attacking a 20-year-old Provo, Utah, girl in the bedroom of her rooming house here last Oct. 26. The blonde complainant, a government worker, charged that Ewing broke a chain latch on her bedroom door and attacked her afer threatening to kill her if she screamed.

She testified the incident took place in the apartment of a long-time friend of the girl's mother who shares ownership of the apartment house with Ewing.

Homer McCormick, Ewing's attorney, said that the verdict would be appealed. Federal Court Justice James W. Morris set no date for hearing the appeal, or for passing sentence on the 53-year-old Washington attorney.

Government attorneys announced at the outset of the week-long trial that they would demand the death penalty for Ewing, who repeatedly contended that he was innocent.

Pale but composed, Ewing stood silent as the jury foreman announced "we find the defendant guilty as charged."

The jury, however, made no recommendation for the death sentence.

Five members of Ewing's family, including three daughters, were on a bench near the front of the courtroom.

They were dry-eyed and intent on the proceedings when the jury reported.

However, three of them began crying softly as the jury was polled individually on the verdict.

Ewing faced each juror as his name was called but gave no outward show of emotion. After it was over, and just before being led out of the courtroom, Ewing turned and looked sadly at the members of his family, and then walked away.

The case was submitted to the jury of 11 men and one woman shortly before noon.

BOSTON JOINS CRUSADE TO ABOLISH SORORITIES

By ALICE BISSELL
Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

Members of the Boston Home and School Association today joined against high school sororities in a fierce war which spread here from White Plains, N. Y., following the tragic suicide of 17-year-old Ruth Livingston.

It can't happen here, was their battle cry when they heard how the high school student shot herself after she learned that her sister was to be blackballed by her sorority.

Speaking for the members of the Association, Mrs. Thomas Dooley, president, sent heartening words to the greater Boston girls who never had a "bid" and have been suffering from feelings of inferiority.

"I have heard of too much sorrow caused by these secret clubs," she said.

"During rushing time they become self-conscious, trying to change themselves into the kind of a girl they think the sororities might accept.

"The sororities rob a girl of all her individualism, and many a talented and interesting girl has given up all her own ideas, lost her life just to be one of the popular herd.

"The girls who were popular in sororities often amount to nothing when they graduate from school. Others who stood on their own feet became the finest people in later life. There is nothing so small as a group of high school sorority sisters who still cling to each other after graduation, still talking about the same things in the same secret way that they did when they were in school."

CRUSADE HERE

Mrs. Dooley expressed great sympathy with the girls who are left out, however, and said she thought that, although school principals did not recognize the sororities, they should talk over the evils of them with the students.

Bearing in mind the words of Ruth Livingston's mother . . . "I blame myself and other foolish parents like me for this awful thing" . . . Greater Boston mothers are trying through school authorities to put an end to secret societies of all kinds.

Mrs. Mary Zaia, Florence st., Malden, mother of a high school girl who is not in a sprority, said that she had been distressed for some time over the heavy hearts and low morale she had observed in her daughter and her friends.

WANT TO QUIT SCHOOL

"They don't complain, but once they said they wished they could have more and better clothes so that they might stand a chance of getting into one. They feel that the sorority plays such a large part in the school life that they want to leave and try to find work somewhere.

"While other girls are planning parties, these non-members stand by in school and listen. They seem to have such feeling of inferiority that their health is endangered."

At Hyde Park high school, where there are no sororities in existence, Principle Francis Horgan said that as nearly as possible the schools should be run according to the democratic ideals of this country.

"It is up to the girls themselves to put their interests in the clubs run by the schools. French, music, history. In this system, the girl who is talented and interested, no matter who she is, soon becomes the type the others admire."

DRAFT CHIEF HOLDS PRESS AND RADIO ARE ESSENTIAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Brig.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said today National Selective Service headquarters would soon advise local draft boards that the press and radio were viewed officially as industries essential to the "national interest."

The selective service director noted that similar opinions already had been given as to motion pictures and organized labor.

Hershey stressed, however, that only local boards can decide whether any individual is a key man and therefore eligible to draft deferment as indispensable to an industry considered essential.

Forty-one detectives have been sent thus far to the local boards to advise them on classifications, he told a press conference, with the prediction that many others were likely.

"But neither the director nor anyone else in the Selective Service system, except a local board," he added, "can grant deferment even to an individual and no group or class exemptions can be made except by Congress."

On the ruling that newspapers were essential, Hershey commented that "the age is built on up-to-the minute news."

One Burned, 30 Flee South Boston Fire

One man was badly burned and more than 30 persons, many of them young children, were driven out in bitter cold today when a three-alarm blaze swept three three-story duplex apartments at O and Seventh sts., South Boston.

The fire, which broke out in the middle dwelling and fanned into the adjoining structures on either side, came while firemen still were battling another two-alarm blaze in the Boston Ice Co. plant at Heath and Cranford sts., Roxbury.

So rapidly did the South Boston blaze progress that those on upper floors were forced to take to the rooftops and escape to other buildings.

MAN IS TRAPPED

John Doherty, 76, of O st., trapped in the flames, was carried to safety by firemen after suffering severe burns about the face, head and legs.

Doherty was taken to the City Hospital, where his condition was described as serious.

Most daring of the rescues was staged by Ralph LaFabvre, 32, occupant of the top floor in the same house. With all escape cut off LaFabvre climbed a rear porch post, while his wife passed up their baby, Edith Marie, 9.

Others awakened by the shouts of James Mahoney, who discovered the fire, were Mr. and Mrs. Fred O'Conner and their two daughters, Mary, 14, and Claire, 9.

DRIVEN TO STREET

From the adjoining house Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chafe, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Kane, Miss Mary Gaffney, Mrs. Mary Strickland and her children, Leo, 6, and Barbara, 4, were driven to the street.

On the opposite side Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Marden and their daughter, Muriel; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sala, Mrs. Mary Caonarino and her children, Polly and Ann Marie, fled the flames to safety.

Also driven out were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Marden and their three children, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Donato and five children and Mrs. Mary Gorman and her daughter, Frances, 21.

Unofficial estimate of the damage caused by the blaze which gutted the buildings was placed at $10,000.

COURT TO RULE ON REMOVAL OF GIRL'S DISTORTED ARM

SEATTLE, Feb. 21 (AP)—In the face of a mother's opposition, Washington's highest court must decide whether a judge can order the amputation of an 11-year-old girl's grossly distorted arm.

Patricia Hudson, born with her left arm disproportionately large, is the pawn in the tragedy that has aligned her mother against her four brothers and five sisters in the controversy.

The children first brought the case before Superior Judge William G. Long in juvenile court here. Little Patricia, wearing a cape to shield her greatly overgrown member, supported their appeal for an amputation order, even in the face of what she knew was a grave risk.

FATHER IS INVALID

Seattle doctors to whom Judge Long recently submitted the case expressed the fear that death would be almost certain within a few years if the arm were not amputated. After arguments showed the arm to be 10 times the weight of the other, the court assigned the case for a written opinion.

The mother, Mrs. Nora Hudson, asked the Supreme Court to prohibit a court order for an amputation, fearing the operation would bring death. The father, Claude E. Hudson, 58, is an invalid.

"But even if I knew she would come through alive," the mother explained, "I would still be against it, because I believe there's a chance that some day medical science may find some way to cure her arm.

SKATES AND SEWS

"I don't think it will kill her if she's left alone, as the doctors claim. I had her examined myself, and was told that the arm isn't getting bigger any more than the rest of her gets bigger as she grows.

"She skates like other children and even sews. She doesn't run and hide when people come to the door, like it was claimed. She only runs sometimes to get her cloak to cover her arm."

The father indicated he did not share his wife's wholehearted opposition to the operation, but said he was "leaving it up to mama."

The girl dropped out of school two years ago and now has a tutor at home.

EVERETT WAR GUARD EDICT BY GOVERNOR

Gov. Saltonstall today threatened to take over the protection of defense plants in Everett unless aldermen clear up the situation impeding appointment of special officers to guard factories.

He gave the aldermen until 9 a. m. Tuesday to comply with his orders.

His ultimatum was delivered after a conference with five Everett aldermen in his office. He said he had been informed by military authorities and plant officials the aldermen were holding up proper guarding of plants.

The dispute arose over the board's refusal to grant permits to men designated by the factories as special police. The aldermen protested the plant managements were discriminating against Everett men.

"I told them Everett men should have preference but final determination lay with the companies," the Governor said.

larger cities have responded with one voice:

"WE'LL BUY BONDS FOR BOMBERS and then begin all over again. YOU CAN COUNT ON US!"

This heartening response should be an inspiration to all LOYAL AMERICANS.

The spectacle of these men who once offered their own lives that their country might live pledging their worldly possessions now that their fighting ability is impaired shines forth like a beacon in this war-torn world.

They KNOW the value of a BOMBER when brutal aggressors blast at humans from the air, sea and slyly sneak to attack under the waters of the world's vast oceans.

THESE MEN KNOW!

They KNOW, from bitter experience, that a BOMBER might have made all the difference in the world to their lives after the war.

BOMBERS WOULD HAVE KEPT THE ENEMY AT BAY AND THESE STALWART DEFENDERS OF DEMOCRACY MIGHT TODAY HAVE THEIR HEALTH UNIMPAIRED AND THEIR LIMBS INTACT!

That's what BOMBERS mean! The soldiers fighting far from their homes know, too. Hear the plaintive cry of these brave men today:

"SEND US BOMBERS AND WE'LL WIN!"

With the brilliant example set by the nation's defenders in the earlier WORLD WAR, every man, woman and child should join in this great campaign.

BUY BONDS, MORE BONDS, and with your small change, BUY STAMPS.

EVERY BOND AND STAMP MEANS ANOTHER STEP TOWARD VICTORY.

DOES HER SHARE

Ruth M. Cleary of West Canton st., So. End, joined the growing army of Americans BUYING BONDS FOR BOMBERS. She reported to the BUY-A-BOMBER editor (5 Winthrop square, Boston) that she had purchased a $50 BOND as her contribution to AMERICA'S WAR EFFORT.

Still another BOMBER was started on its way to construction when Harry O. Plummer of Leonard st., Foxboro, purchased a $100 BOND.

The rapidly-rising BUY-A-BOMBER total reached $3,515,951 with receipt of these generous purchases by UNSELFISH individuals and groups.

OVER THREE MILLIONS DOLLARS! But that's not enough. We must keep on BUYING BONDS AND STAMPS until the enemy is swept from the earth.

BUYING BONDS AND STAMPS BUYS BOMBERS!

Know Patriotic Airs
Send for Your Songbook

Americans have always sung—at Valley Forge, at Bull Run, the Argonne! Our great heroes, our great past and future live in our songs. One of the most popular is "America the Beautiful."

Do you know these famous verses? They might have been dedicated to the heroic Washington, whose birthday we celebrate tomorrow:

"O beautiful for heroes proved
In liberating strife,
Who more than self their country loved,
And mercy more than life!

"O beautiful for patriot dream
That sees beyond the years
Thine alabaster cities gleam
Undimmed by human tears!"

Sing these great songs—in your home, with your friends, at your club. Our 40-page songbook, "Patriotic Songs of America," has words and music of 36 favorites, including "The Star-Spangled Banner," our national anthem. Also has two army bugle calls.

Ewing Guilty In Girl Attack; Death Asked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A federal court jury today convicted Orman W. Ewing, former Utah Democratic national committeeman, of attacking a 20-year-old government stenographer.

The jury deliberated less than two hours.

Ewing stood silent and with no show of emotion as the foreman announced the verdict of guilty.

The government announced at the start of the trial that it would ask the death penalty if Ewing were convicted.

Five members of Ewing's family, including three daughters, were on a bench near the front of the courtroom.

ported by a United Nations command war bulletin which credited the Allies with sinking a large Jap transport and scoring hits on numerous other transports and warships.

It said that during one attack on two Japanese cruisers and two destroyers, Jap "Zero" (naval fighter planes tried to protect their warships but were driven off.

Several hits were reported scored by dive bombers on four Japanese ships "engaged in landing operations near Denpasar," airfield and coastal town on southeastern Bali.

8 PLANES SHOT DOWN

Here, again, the United Nations command said, Jap fighters clashed with Allied planes. Three Japanese planes were shot down and two Allied planes were lost, the communique reported.

The American and Dutch bombers were operating the length of Java's northern seafront, the communique disclosed.

It reported that in the Bangka strait a direct hit was scored on one transport ship and a direct hit and near miss on the 5000-ton merchant vessel Koapang.

Ranging over the Musi river, where Japanese invasion forces won their foothold on Sumatra, Allied planes were said to have scored two direct hits on an 8000-ton vessel, a bomb hit squarely on the bridge of a 5000-ton ship, and several near misses on another ship of 8000 tons.

In the sea fight with Jap cruisers and destroyers, the Dutch reported the Jap warship which was sunk "was in flames after having been hit by a torpedo, and after half an hour it blew up."

The Dutch communique declared Japanese bombers struck at airfields at both ends of Java, and bombed the town of Banjoewangi, just across the narrow strait from Bali, killing 39 civilians and injuring 15, mostly in a direct hit on air raid shelter.

Japanese attempts to continue landings on Bali, the flower-scented island separated from Java, heart of the Netherlands East Indies, by a mile-wide strait, were made more difficult by reefs, sharks and high waves pounding on the glistening sands.

flames—everywhere I could see," a crewman related. "I tried to open the porthole but the side of the ship was burning also. Desperately I threw on what clothes I could and made my way to the deck.

ICY WATER, FIERY DEATH

"Men were shouting all around me. Flames were shooting high into the air and the sea was burning all around. The lifeboats and rafts were in flames. We ran about, looking for a place to jump. When a patch would clear for a moment, somebody would jump.

"I picked my spot and jumped. Flames reared up around me, but I managed to fight my way to open water.

"The water was like ice and I got numb—so numb I could hardly keep afloat.

"Then we sighted a ship and started yelling. We didn't think we would be seen, but we were. The ship lowered a boat and eighteen were taken aboard—18 out of 38. One man was taken aboard stark naked. Some were badly burned and in great pain.

Others told of how the two lifeboats were burned instantly and when an attempt was made to launch a raft "it drifted into the flames and went up with a flash."

But the sentiments expressed by most of them were summed up by First Officer Carini as he thrust his fingers out in a "V-for-Victory" and said:

"I'm going back to sea."

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb 21 (AP)—Officials of the ministry of defense said today that the Chilean naval radio had picked up an SOS purportedly coming from a United States ship, the Admiral Cole, reporting that the crew was taking to the lifeboats.

Official U. S. Communique

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (INS)—Following is the text of the War Department's 117th communique:

"PHILIPPINE THEATER: Heavy artillery firing by both sides characterized the action in Bataan district during the past 24 hours.

"Infantry patrols were active, resulting in numerous skirmishes. In the air enemy aircraft made frequent flights over our lines, dropping incendiary bombs.

"Hostile artillery fire on all our fortifications was resumed, with Fort Frank bearing the brunt of the attack. Our harbor defense batteries returned the fire.

"NETHERLANDS INDIES: American aircraft participated in continuing attacks on Japanese shipping off the coast of Bali.

"An enemy fleet consisting of two cruisers, four or five destroyers, and four transports appeared off the southeast coast of Bali and was attacked by a formation of heavy American Army bombers accompanied by two American Army A-24 dive bombers.

"The heavy bombers made three direct hits on one or more of the cruisers, and two direct hits on the transports. One enemy cruiser and one transport were hit by smaller missiles from our dive bombers. Four enemy fighter planes were shot down.

"Our aircraft suffered no losses in this attack.

"Later, seven American Army A-24 dive bombers, with an escort of 16 P-40 fighter planes, resumed the attack on the enemy vessels. In this fight a Japanese cruiser was seriously damaged. Two of our dive bombers and two of our fighter planes were lost.

"In a subsequent action three of our heavy bombers attacked another enemy cruiser off Bali, scoring three hits.

"A later attack was made on the Japanese vessels by 10 American Army bombers of the flying fortress type.

U. S. PLANES, FLEET SINK 2 DESTROYERS NEAR JAVA

island of Bali and sank two enemy destroyers.

"Our destroyers suffered only slight damage and minor loss of personnel."

4 U. S. PLANES LOST

The Army communique mentioned a total of 13 "flying fortresses," nine A-24 dive bombers and 16 P-40 pursuit ships. Reference was also made to a "formation" of heavy Army bombers but the number of planes in the formation was not disclosed.

The four raids on the Jap naval units cost the U. S. forces two dive bombers and two pursuit ships, according to the War Department.

While Army spokesmen explained that details of the Bali action were not yet available, early reports indicated American aircraft took a tremendous toll of Japanese warships and transports.

Working in relays, a formation of heavy Army bombers and two dive bombers scored direct hits on one or more enemy cruisers and two direct hits on transports, according to the War Department.

FLYING FORTRESSES BUSY

In that action, one enemy cruiser and one transport was hit by smaller missiles from dive bombers and four enemy fighter planes were shot down, while American aircraft escaped unharmed.

In a second attack, seven Army dive bombers escorted by 16 P-40 fighter planes resumed the attack on the convoy, seriously damaging one Jap cruiser.

Still another attack by heavy bombers resulted in three hits on a Japanese cruiser in the same area.

The communique was significant in that for the first time it disclosed the presence of U. S. Army dive bombers in the Dutch East Indies.

The final aerial action reported disclosed that 10 "flying fortress" bombers attacked the same convoy off Bali with undetermined results.

Rose La Rose Globe's New Star

The petal-peeling Rose La Rose arrives in time to usher in the holiday week at the Globe's midnight show tomorrow.

This streamlined brunette is one of the burlesque circuit's greatest favorites locally and her return is automatic insurance of good box-office for the week at the Globe.

Nor does she alone rate a welcoming salute. Jean Mode, the babyish-looking blonde, is another charmer with a considerable Hub following. Sharing the spotlight with them will be Mary Lou, Melania LeBeau, Ethel DeVou and Mary Miles. As always, there will be new and spectacular dance routines by the 30 Bernardolls.

As ballast for all this pulchritude, the Globe management has engaged the services of happy-go-lucky Hap Hyatt, with his "ton of fun," and poker-faced Jack Diamond.

Others featured will be Ben Hamilton, singing "songs as you like them"; Mervin Harmon, the Saxons, of circus fame; Roger Williams and Company, mimics, and others.

Dowling Brings Novel Show Here

Eddie Dowling will bring a production of unusual theatrical interest and importance to Boston, when "Life, Laughter and Tears" is presented at the Plymouth Theater the week of March 2d. It brings together two of the outstanding creative writers of the modern theater, William Saroyan and Sean O'Casey. The company of 20 is headed by Dowling and Julie Haydon.

Of all the active playwrights today none have been more discussed or made lasting impressions than Saroyan and O'Casey. It is an indication of their esteem for each other as writers that they permitted premieres of their works to be given on the same bill.

'Legs and Laughter' Is Gala Holiday Bill at Old Howard

"Legs and Laughter" is the title of the Old Howard's lavish holiday stage bill which will open tomorrow night with a special midnight show.

Stella Mills, Diana Rowland, Helen Colby, Margie Dill and Dorothy DeHaven most attractively exemplify the first half of the stage show's explicit moniker.

STELLA MILLS

The latter half will be hilariously taken care of by Stinkie Fields and Shorty McAllister, probably burlesque's two most popular clowns. Another well-liked comic, Mac Dennison, will assist them in their antics.

Contributing interesting routines will be Bert Saunders, Lolita Mondez, Jack Lyons and Dorothy Carter.

In addition, there will be five vaudeville acts, namely, the Mazzone-Abbott Dancers, in an Apache number; Big-Time Crip, the gifted monopede dancer; the Equille Brothers, acrobats, and Ramon and Louise, ballroom dancers. The "Legs and Laughter Lovelies," a chorus of 30, will be an eye-taking attraction.

ALL-STAR VAUDEVILLE BILL DELIGHTS BOSTON AUDIENCES

AN EVENING of O'Casey and Saroyan—"Life, Laughter and Tears," consisting of three short plays, one by the Irish playwright and the other two by the astounding Armenian whose "Time of Your Life" won both the Pulitzer and Critics' Circle awards, brings producer-actor Eddie Dowling and Julie Haydon to the Plymouth March 2.

ZORINA, the lovely, who is as irresistibly amusing as she is beautiful, and Victor Moore, arrive in "Louisiana Purchase," Buddy De Sylva's hit, a week from Monday at the Shubert.

By JOYCE DANA

There are stars all over the RKO-Boston, where your holiday gift from Hollywood is as neat a package of vodvil as you'll find all over the map.

There are six ace acts and not a dud in the half-dozen. Presiding with ease and pidgin English is Dave Apollon, who "emcees" until he and his Filipinos take over the next-to-closing spotlight.

Dave and his island cousins have a little Hawaiian-Russian-Apollon jam session, with some mighty fine guitar-banjo-mandolin music and bass-slapping and of course there are gags, and a dream of a girl who had the boys in the balcony whistling at the opener.

The blonde eyeful is Gail Manners, and her voice is as beautiful as she is. Her "Lover" disclosed a soprano of operatic caliber, and it was infinitely more effective than "This Love of Mine." That voice needs the best.

"Delilah" and "China Boy," on the other hand, cry out for pretty Susan Miller. Sue is one of those cute-as-a-button girls. Under Al (Star Maker) Siegel's expert tutelage, and with him at the piano, the gal has got somethin' there. Her style is distinctly not a carbon copy of anybody's vocalizing, and what with those novel arrangements, she puts personality and punch into her song.

"The Fleet's In" is the movie from which you'll welcome Lorraine and Rognan, that tall and hardsome gentleman and his practically indestructible girl friend.

Their travesty of a ballroom waltz is hilarious, and for that matter they're pretty much of a laugh riot whatever they do. Miss Lorraine with her collapsible limbs is another lady with a voice, too, but she sticks to her own brand of comedy instead.

Lewis and Van are the top-hat dancing stars of the "Earl Carroll Vanities," and their up-and-down-the-stairs routines are fast and clever. The Jansleys are Risly experts and their amazing stunts close the show.

And the opening act—as far as this corner stands—is the real sockeroo of the show. It's Gautier's Bricklayers in "Aiding the Housing Project," and if you think dogs can't lay bricks, take a peek at these pooches.

The Andrews Sisters and Gloria Jean are the stars of "What's Cookin'," screen attraction at the RKO.

Boston's Playbill

It will be a footlights blackout along the Hub's rialto throughout next week but thereafter there is to be no Lenten letdown.

For various reasons, three scheduled bookings have been cancelled. "Without Love," the new Philip Barry play co-starring Katharine Hepburn and Elliott Nugent, was due at the Colonial for a week beginning a week from Monday evening. "More time is needed for rehearsals," wires the Theater Guild's Joseph Heidt in announcing the cancellation.

Boston's loss is Chicago's gain as regards "The Rivals," the Guild's revival of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's famous comedy with Mary Boland, Bobby Clark and Walter Hampden, which treks to the latter's Opera House instead of keeping a date with ours March 9.

Rather than transport the costly "Kiss for Cinderella" production here for its brief week's run at the Wilbur March 9, Producers Cheryl Crawford and Richard W. Krakeur have decided to open cold on Broadway on that date. As you know, Luise Rainer is starred in the Barrie fantasy.

March 2

PLYMOUTH—"LIFE, LAUGHTER AND TEARS," with Eddie Dowling presenting Julie Haydon and himself in "an evening of Sean O'Casey and William Saroyan." Since the producer-actor is occupied with the "We, the People" radio program Tuesday evenings, there will be no Tuesday night performance. Instead, there will be three matinees, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. One week.

SHUBERT—"LOUISIANA PURCHASE." Buddy De Sylva's successful musical comedy with William Gaxton, Victor Moore, Zorina and Irene Bordoni, is due to pause for a fortnight, possibly at the Shubert, in the not distant future. Musical has a de Sylva book and an Irving Berlin score.

March 9

COLONIAL—"MY DEAR PUBLIC," with the song-writing Irving Caesar making his debut as the producer of a new musical featuring Mitzi Green, John Buckmaster, Tamara, Joe Smith, Cora Witherspoon, Charles Dale, the Revuers, Irene Brown, the Martins and April Ames. Caesar and Charles Gotteafeld collaborated on the libretto, and Caesar and Gerald Marks and Samuel Lerner are responsible for the songs. One week.

PLYMOUTH—"TOBACCO ROAD," with John Barton as Jeeter and Lillian Ardell as Grandma Lester, will play its fourth Boston engagement here a week from tonight.

March 16

COLONIAL—"WATCH ON THE RHINE," with Herman Shumlin presenting Lillian Hellman's prize-winning drama for a two-week engagement with the original cast including Lucille Watson, Paul Lukas, Mady Christians, George Coulouris and Jonn Lodge. This is a Theater Guild-American Theater Society subscription play.

Beauty hints by Arline Gould, every day in the Boston American.

Beauty

THIS LOVELY Easter bride, in her snowy net gown, is undoubtedly wearing that "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue" . . . and we'd make a good wager that she also is wearing a lovely perfume to enhance the breathless moment when she says "I do." If you have to think of a shower gift for an Easter bride, what more appropriate and useful than a flacon . . . or goodly supply . . . of one of the most lovely perfumes ever, not new but ever in demand by discriminating and glamourwise women. Arline Gould tells you today of a group of gift packages, at most reasonable prices, which will delight any girl and which you also will love yourself.

NEW PERFUMED DELIGHTS IN GAY EASTER PACKAGES

By ARLINE GOULD

IT MAY BE a bit early to talk of Easter bunnies, but in the penitential season of Lent we do like to look forward to innocent frivolity.

That brilliant thought w s inspired by an advance package of perfumed delights especially designed for Easter gifts, but which we will take right now, or at least as soon as they appear on the counters of the shops.

First there is a flacon of a seductive, distracting perfume, bearing an elegant name, mounted on an adorable Easter greeting card. This is so cute we are going to send several, for the cost is only a little more than a half-dollar, and everyone who gets it will think we are wonderful.

Then there is a good-sized package of this same famous perfume, packed in an Easter egg with Mr. and Mrs. Chick in their Easter Parade finery rampant all over it. This you can buy, and delight your love thereby, for the small sum of $1.25.

Third on the list is an Easter Gift Set consisting of cologne and talcum, in the same hauntingly lovely scent, at a dollar for the combination. This set also carries out the "Easter Parade" motif. Incidentally, they are also putting out an Easter Egg package containing a special dollar size of the perfume.

Finally, as the piece de resistance, this cosmetician offers an entirely new set consisting of regular sizes of rouge and lipstick, with a flacon of the perfume thrown in. This makes a grand gift, for yourself if you like, and you can buy it for $1.50, which I believe is less than you would pay separately just for the rouge and lipstick.

The gay packages which hold these treats come in red, green, orchid or blue. Don't say we didn't tell you how to win friends and influence beaux at a very small cost!

Call Arline Gould at LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturdays, or write her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, at the Boston American, for information as to this Easter offering.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

• FOOD •

By Martha Lee

AS LONG AS THE WEATHER man predicts low temperatures, the problem in cooking is to have new hot dishes that will satisfy hearty appetites. And the answer is often found in a good-flavored chowder or a substantial soup.

Chowder is usually thick with fish or vegetables, and some cookbooks call it "super-soup." It is a hot food that supplies the protein, mineral matter, and vitamins of milk, as well as the food value of the other ingredients. Yet it is more interesting in texture and more appetizing in flavor than an ordinary cream soup. Salt pork gives it a distinctive flavor; and, in keeping with an old tradition, the real chowder is poured over crackers before serving.

Clams are usually associated with chowder, but people in different places have varied this rule by making chowder with other kinds of fish, with meat, or with vegetables of many kinds. Often a single vegetable, such as corn, supplies the outstanding flavor.

NEW ENGLAND CLAM CHOWDER

½ lb. salt pork, chopped
3 small onions, minced
3 cups boiling water
3 cups diced potatoes
2 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 qt. fresh clams, minced, or
2 cans No. 1 minced clams
3 cups milk, scalded
6 pilot or hard crackers

Try out salt pork in large saucepan; add onions and saute until browned; add boiling water, potatoes and seasonings, and boil about 15 minutes, or until potatoes are soft. Heat fresh clams and clam liquor to boiling point, add with milk to soup mixture and again bring to a boil. Pour chowder over plain or crumbled crackers in serving bowls. Makes 6 servings.

CORN CHOWDER

1 ounce salt pork, diced
6 tbsp. chopped onions
1 1-3 cups (No. 1 can) corn
2 cups boiling water
1 qt. milk
¾ cup mashed potatoes
Salt and pepper
6 crackers

Try out salt pork, remove cracklings and saute onions in drippings. Add corn and water, and cook 10 minutes. Then add milk, potatoes, pork and onions, and heat thoroughly. Season to taste. Pour over crisp crackers and sprinkle cracklings over top, or add crumbled crackers to chowder just before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Although chowder originated as a community fish stew on the coast of France, it was popular in New England during the early days of colonization. And today chowders have been adopted as a main supper or luncheon dish everywhere. You can make a complete meal from a bowl of rich chowder, if you serve it with plenty of crisp crackers, a cool salad, and some simple dessert.

CARROT-POTATO CHOWDER

1 white onion, minced
¼ cup butter
2 cups diced raw potatoes
2 cups boiling water
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. paprika
2 carrots, diced and cooked
2 cups milk, scalded
1 tbsp. flour

Saute onions in 2 tablespoons butter in large saucepan until lightly browned, add potatoes, boiling water, salt and paprika, and boil about 15 minutes, or until potatoes are soft. Add carrots, milk and flour mixed with remaining 2 tablespoons butter and cook 5 minutes, stirring until smooth and thickened. Makes 6 servings.

Special bread to serve with soup is so important that it seems to be almost a part of the dish itself. Crackers are always popular, and there is almost endless variety of them today. You can restore crackers to their original crispness by heating them slowly in the oven. Toasted fingers or rounds of dry bread, cheese straws or puffs, and pastry sticks are also good.

Today's Food Bargains

According to the calendar, this is not the season to expect low prices on vegetables. As a matter of fact, however, vegetable offerings at retail counters appear very reasonably priced as well as varied and voluminous. Even locally grown produce, reduced to its mid-winter minimum has generous representation. The purple-top turnips, cut-off carrots, parsnips, and squash are augmented by freshly-picked hothouse specialties.

Turnips (Purple top), lb.	5c
Carrots, bunch	5c
Parsnips, lb.	7½c to 8c
Squash, lb.	3 1-3c to 5c
Beets, bunch	6½c to 10c
Cabbage, lb.	4c to 5c
Radishes, bunch	5c
Romaine, head	10c

DOESN'T THIS BANQUET cloth really ring the bell as a stunning piece of handicraft? This is the sort of thing that makes your dinner guests green with envy . . . and secretly skeptical when you tell them you made it with your hands. It is not only beautiful and rich, but you will hand it down as an heirloom. The secret is that it is very easy to make. Only a chain and d c stitches are used to make each square. You make 140 squares . . . and they go very quickly . . . to make this cloth, which is approximately 55 inches by 76 inches in size. The fragile, lacy affair is a matter of these squares sewn together, with two rounds of edging worked after the squares are joined. GIRLS ARE BUYING SUITS TO LAST THEM TWO YEARS

By BETTINA BEDWELL

IT'S A GOOD many years since the fashion world has talked about buying clothes to wear for two years or so, but that's exactly what is happening this season. And the spring suit is one item that is being chosen to last.

Girls who usually insist on changing their styles often, are picking good suits and paying more for them this spring, the suit departments of our stores tell me.

The kind of suit that is picked by the best dressed debutantes is one like the model in our sketch. It is a classical suit, made of a colorful men's wear wool, in shades of red, gray and blue Handley Cross designed it.

The length of the jacket of this suit is the one best liked, and the way the skirt flares is another of its good points. The one-button closing and the rather wide revers are other items that make it such an excellent suit.

Miss Dulin has sketched a new spring shirtwaist with this suit. It is an adaptation of a Mexican man's shirt, made of white cotton gabardine and embroidered with bands of colorful cotton embroidery.

Regrets Leaving OCD Friends

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Friday — Last night, in New York city, I went to a movie, which I enjoyed very much, and then took the night train back here. This morning I have attended a final staff conference with Dean James Landis, and held my own final staff conference. It is certainly a grand feeling to work with people and, when you leave, to feel a real warmth of feeling and a sense of regret on their part as well as your own.

I am going back for a conference with Mr. Paul Kellogg of our advisory committee this afternoon, and shall then leave my desk in the Office of Civilian Defense for good.

Tonight I am having a party for all those who work in the Office of Civilian Defense and who care to come, as we have been doing every month since I went into the office. Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., will receive with me, so it will be a chance for both of us to say a last good-by to everyone. I couldnever have organized myself so successfully out of a job without the help of Mrs. Morgenthau, Justice Polier and Mrs. Lindley, all of whom have left, or are now leaving also.

This will be the end of all official connections with the Office of Civilian Defense, but I feel sure that I shall not lose personal touch with a great many people I have come to know through the last five months. I am including in this party tonight, my own office staff at the White House.

YESTERDAY I had a chance to see Mrs. William Brown Meloney, and she gave me a quotation which ex-President Coolidge often used. It is so useful to everyone of us today, that I pass it anlong to you. Ex-President Coolidge averred that there were four things which made New England great, and he added New York State and Pennsylvania, as well. I'm sure he quoted the following from some New England mentor:

Eat it up.
Wear it out.
Make it do.
Do without.

Four little sayings, but if we take them really to heart, what a difference they may make in our daily contribution to the winning of the war.

I have just received a request to mention to you that Saturday, Feb. 21, has been designated as "Norway-Day" by Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, who is chairman of the "American Friends of Norway," 36 East 48th St., New York City. On this day they are making a special appeal to those who ski, asking that they give what they can to provide medical supplies for ski battalions of Norwegian expeditionary forces now training in Iceland and Canada. Their object, of course, is the recapture of their native land from the Nazis.

Mrs. Roosevelt Proves Democracy Still Reigns

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT, wife of the President, has resigned her post as assistant director of the Office of Civilian Defense.

With characteristic intrepidity she notes the criticism and abuse that have been showered upon her in recent weeks, and says:

"By remaining I would only make it possible for those who wish to attack me, because of my beliefs, to attack an agency which I consider can prove its usefulness so completely to the people, that it should be free of attack, in order to render its maximum service.

"No individual is more important than a good program."

That is the genuine unselfishness that makes true democracy possible.

The statement may surprise some of the pension-grabbing Congressmen and others who have singled out the First Lady as a target for their vituperation.

But it will not surprise the many thousands of New England newspaper readers who know and understand Mrs. Roosevelt through her exclusive and featured writings in the Boston American.

Mrs. Roosevelt went into the Office of Civilian Defense when that agency was in the process of formation.

She gave unsparingly of her time and energy to make it the kind of governmental department she thought the people wanted and needed.

Of course, she made mistakes. The appointment of her protege, Miss Mayris Chaney, to teach dancing to children was quite possibly one of them.

But this, as every fair-minded person realizes, was grossly misrepresented. Miss Chaney is not a fan dancer, as some critics described her.

She is a conservative and competent member of her profession, and it is very probable that she might have contributed much to the happiness of thousands of little girls and boys in the trying days that lie ahead.

Besides, most office-holders select their friends for positions of trust and responsibility. Why should the First Lady be expected to act differently?

Perhaps Mrs. Roosevelt was doing something more important and significant than she realized when she so graciously stepped out of her first appointive position.

She brought home to every American, including members of the Senate and House of Representatives who have frequently fallen down on their own jobs, the heartening knowledge that democracy is still a powerful force on this side of the Atlantic and that public opinion is both respected and heeded.

The Masked Jury

LOVE IN WARTIME

SHOULD SOLDIER WED?

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: I'm a serious-minded girl and I want a home and a companion. I've been dating a boy of twenty-one for the past three years and have not been out with anyone except him. He is in the draft and will only be here about three weeks longer.

I want to be with him just a little while before he has to go. I have a small-paying job and would have to give this up if I marry the boy. Would you advise me to go ahead and marry him? Can we live on a soldier's pay? Or do you think I should wait, not knowing how long it will be before he returns?

DOWN-HEARTED.

HOW THE JURY VOTED
Women: Wait, five; Marry, one
Men: Wait, four; Marry, two

CITY EMPLOYE (woman): Wait. It's not pleasant, but in this particular case it's practical.

DENTAL NURSE—A wife can't follow a soldier husband to camp in these days. They are moving about too fast.

SOLDIER—Tell her she had better wait if it means quitting her job and not knowing where she might get another one.

SAILOR—Maybe they could get married without telling anyone and she could still keep her job.

SORTER (woman)—No, she can't live on a soldier's pay; she had better wait.

DRAMATIC COACH (woman)—If she has to give up her job there is no other answer but to wait. In wartime, wives can't be following soldiers.

MOTORMAN—Marry him but don't go to him after he leaves for camp. Look for another job.

SALESMAN—Wait. That is, unless they can figure out some way of getting married without making her give up her job.

STENOGRAPHER—Marry him. Life is too short as it is and the war may last a long time.

HOUSEWIFE—My advice is to wait. It would be different if she had a place to live after they were married.

MAINTENANCE MAN—Lots of girls are waiting for soldiers. Everyone just can't quit their work to get married.

STENOGRAPHER — She won't be allowed to follow him to camp after he's drafted and if that's the only way she can marry them she should wait.

ESCAPE FROM SINGAPORE

Reporter's Own Story of 1200-Mile Flight

By C. YATES McDANIEL

BATAVIA, NEI, Feb. 20 (Delayed)—(AP)—I escaped from doomed Singapore Feb. 13 aboard the last vessel to leave the battered and burning fortress and reached Batavia during an air raid alarm this morning.

In my seven and one-half day journey I abandoned a bombed ship, was cast up on an uninhabited island, made my way through a storm in a small launch to Sumatra, crossed that island's mountain wilds by truck, rail, pony cart and completed 1200 roundabout miles safely through the Idian ocean aboard a destroyer.

C. YATES McDANIEL, Associated Press correspondent and last American reporter to leave Singapore before its fall, has arrived safely in Batavia after a series of breath-taking experiences. He tells his story in this dispatch, the first direct word from him since he filed his last cable from Singapore at 4:45 a. m. (EWT) Feb. 12, while aboard ship in the harbor, under incessant air attack.

From the salt water soaked pulp which is all that is left of my journal I will attempt to piece together my story, which in a larger sense is the story of the last days of Singapore — of the few who succeeded and many more who failed to escape the deadly and efficient fury of the final Japanese onslaught on Britain's last stronghold in southern Asia.

(Note—Some portion of McDaniel's story is evidently missing here.)

Early in the morning we were looking at the peaceful scene of the little islands when two Japanese light bombers circled and glided toward us. The old ship shuddered when the bombs exploded just astern.

A few minutes later two more planes came over at not more than 500 feet. This time they didn't miss. The decks seemed to bounce up to meet us as we flopped on our faces. I found a gaping hole through the forward hold.

SAILORS TERRIFIED

Ten minutes later there was another ear-splitting crash followed by the hiss of escaping steam. The ship listed and began settling. The engineer emerged from the boiler room and assured us the boilers wouldn't explode because he'd opened the valves.

The officers gave no order to abandon ship but within 10 minutes a lifeboat was lowered. Before it hit the water, 15 sailors tumbled in and pulled off, too terrified to heed the officers' shouts to come back.

After looking over the damage, the captain ordered the other two lifeboats put overside. We put Miss Lim, the only woman passenger, in one. The rest of us remained on board hoping that at least one of the leaky boats would be able to reach the nearest island five miles away and return before we had to swim for it. The captain said he believed we might have another two hours, but the fire in the coal bunker was spreading and the list was getting worse.

FOUGHT FIRE

Propped against a coil of rope, I tried to continue my journal, but was forced to drop the job twice to answer the call, "All hands to fight fire," as one of 44 men aboard the burning and fast settling ship.

We got the fires under control but Japanese planes came over again and again. One was so low I saw the bomb swing on the wing rack but he didn't drop it. I helped hoist the life rafts overboard but the rotten bamboo lashings broke and the rusty tanks sank.

We were about ready to swim for it when one of our lifeboats returned. Thirty-six of us, including the captain and all but one officer climbed in. Six men volunteered to remain aboard for the next trip as our boat was leaking badly and we were crammed in like sardines. After an hour of bailing, rowing and sailing, we touched ground on a coral reef. We waded ashore on the little island of Bangka.

ON NARROW BEACH

A hundred men and a girl settled down for a miserable night on the narrow beach. Japanese planes knew exactly where we were and we knew there was little hope of our being rescued. Wet sand, mosquitoes and ants didn't help our situation.

Early on Feb. 14 we were breakfasting on a cigarette, a tin of muddy water which neither tasted nor smelled like tea, and one small biscuit, when the lookout reported small launches approaching our ship which was still barely afloat.

The others were sure it was a rescue party but Capt. Henry Steele, formerly attached to the public relations office at Singapore and I feared it was a Japanese patrol. Our skipper said he would surrender if it were the enemy. Steele and I, in a quick huddle, decided we'd make a break for the jungle or the center island in the slim hope of hailing a fishing craft. We weren't going to get caught by the Japanese after all we'd been through.

An hour later our lifeboat returned, reporting the launches belonged to a rubber planter on a nearby island who would try to take us off at nightfall.

HOPES ARE DIMMED

Our hopes were dimmed soon after by the drone of Japanese planes. Up and down the beach they flew. They circled off and then we heard bombs exploding. They circled over us again and we heard more bombs. This process continued for two hours but this time we were not the victims but two ships sheltering on the lee side of one of the islands near us. Toward noon, a formation of seven bombers circled over our stricken ship. We saw two bursts forward.

The old pride of the Yangtze reared by the stern. Our captain turned away and took off his cap. It was the first and only sign of emotion he displayed.

Our first officer and the doctor went off in a launch in the early afternoon to see if the other ships needed help.

We waited all afternoon, knowing if we didn't get off that night we probably never would for we could hear Japanese planes combing the air over the area.

MUSTER OF COMPANY

The first and only muster of the ship's company and supercargoes disclosed 131 men, one woman, one Australian soldier, one Chinese soldier killed by bombs, one sailor badly burned and three others slightly injured.

After sundown, the first officer returned and reported he had taken off six badly wounded women from the other ships in which casualties were heavy. All hands were ordered to the beach. We waited an hour, knee-deep in water, while the officers decided on how to get us out to the launches for the tide was far out and even our lifeboats could not approach within a half-mile.

HAD TO CARRY ON

We were finally ordered to make our way as best we could and the next 45 minutes were the worst I ever experienced as I clambered over coral rocks and slipped into holes. All around men were pushing ahead through the darkness, swearing each time they fell and shouting in an effort to keep together. I kept my camera and exposed films of burning Singapore and the bombing of our ship, high over my head until I was within 20 yards of the nearest boat when I plunged off a rock into a 10-foot hole.

I could have cried but I had to carry on, swimming until I was hoisted into a lifeboat-full of exhausted men. Somehow, with one oar and everyone shouting different orders, we managed to push hard enough against the tide to reach the launch.

SAW WHITE ENSIGN

Fifty-five men and one plucky girl piled exhausted and soaked, with their legs bleeding from coral cuts, into a launch licensed to carry 15. Forty men gave up the struggle and turned back to the island to wait with the small party left ashore until we could send help.

If the night on the island was miserable, the one aboard the launch was indescribable. Waves rolled over the deck where we were sprawled wet and shivering but we were still hoping we'd make Sumatra before dawn brought Japanese bombers.

Behind us chugged a smaller launch on which our skipper and doctor were working over the wounded men. Daybreak found us approaching the mouth of the river up which we worked until late afternoon. No one was quite certain where we were except somewhere in Sumatra.

Late that afternoon we got a big thrill when, rounding a bend, we saw a white ensign (the white British naval flag with the Union Jack in one corner) over warships anchored at a wharf.

Ashore we found members of the Malayan command staff whom we'd last seen in Singapore three days before. They left ahead of us and got through unscathed.

KEPT DRIVER AWAKE

Early the next morning, Feb. 16, we resumed our slow journey upriver. By noon we had reached the motor road head, hungry and cramped, but we were soon cheered by the warm hospitality of the Dutch military and civilians who fed us and provided us with a truck for the 400-mile drive across Sumatra.

I sat beside the driver all night, talking and feeding him cigarets to keep him awake while the rest of our party slept. Every few miles, local guards halted us but quickly and courteously waved us on. They were taking no chances on the surprise approach of an enemy patrol.

Dawn found us on top a volcanic range which forms the backbone of Sumatra. Monkeys in nearby trees howled their morning hymns to the sun. One official en route tried to halt us for fear we'd break down and fall prety to tigers but only one black panther and one civet cat crossed the road and we didn't break down.

At midafternoon we reached northwest Sumatra. The hotels were full of refugees from Malaya and southern Sumatra, but a good Dutch lady took us in and gave us wholesome food.

Officials held little hope for our getting out, but the next morning the indefatigable public relations officer rushed in with the news that there was a slim chance of getting away by warship if we immediately pushed on.

No taxi was available so we hired pony carts and drove to the railway station during a beating of tomtoms—which are used to sound air raid alarms.

ABOARD DESTROYER

Half an hour later we disentrained at the port. The effects of an earlier bombing were visible everywhere. Twice during the day an alert was sounded but no planes appeared. Later in the afternoon we saw the most beautiful sight I ever expect to see—a British destroyer hull down on the horizon steaming full speed toward the harbor.

Half an hour later, the destroyer was alongside. Officers quickly and efficiently shepherded us aboard. There were allotted spaces for 176 men, women and children—British soldiers and sailors, American and Dutch men from Sumatran oil fields, rubber planters and six weary members of the last party from Singapore.

The officers and men quickly made us at home and as comfortable as the cramped cabin and deck space on the destroyer would allow.

When I congratulated one officer on the efficiency of the embarkation he laughingly said it was an old story for them for they had been "rescuing the army from Norway to Tobruk."

The steel decks were no softer than wet sand, but I was too exhausted and too thankful to care so long as we were speeding toward Java, and speed we did this morning, just seven and a half days since we left the flaming Singapore waterfront, we disembarked at friendly Batavia.

My pictures are probably spoiled, my camera is ruined and I have nothing but a filthy pair of pants, battered shoes and a borrowed shirt, but I am glad to be alive and looking forward to sleeping in a bed for the first time in 11 days.

advantage in the defense of the Batan peninsula.

"Rear Admr. Francis W. Rockwell, U. S. Navy, commandant of the 16th Naval District, the senior naval officer fighting with Gen. MacArthur, reports that this equipment consists of 3-inch and 4-inch artillery as well as boat guns and machine guns of several types, with ammunition. A large number of hand grenades, aircraft bombs and depth charges have been available.

"Stores of gasoline, Diesel oil and lubricating oil were saved and are being used in field operation. Motor launches, tugs and facilities for repair of artillery, tanks and trucks have been provided in addition to electrical and ordnance supplies.

"Personnel of the naval air base organization who previously were employed on government contracts have constructed and repaired air fields and roads in the fighting area.

"Such heavy equipment as steam shovels, tractors, cranes, trucks and graders have been operated by this organization to useful advantage on Bataan and Corregidor."

At the same time, a War Department communique revealed that on the Bataan peninsula there had been a resumption of heavy artillery exchanges between MacArthur's forces and the invaders.

NEEDHAM ORDERS SPY PROBE IN PUBLIC SAFETY GROUP

A sweeping probe of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety to determine whether fifth columnists have slipped into the organization was ordered today by Gen. Daniel Needham, director of the protective division of the committee.

"The committee is a ripe field for subversive activities and we're taking no chances now the country is at war," Needham declared.

Every member will be closely checked as to past history and connections with any group considered anti-American, Needham said.

The nine regional chairmen in the state have been instructed to begin the investigation immediately.

Needham also revealed "a number of original committee members" had been dismissed recently after a checkup disclosed they had criminal records.

"I have every confidence in the organization," Needham said. "But, in view of the disclosures in New York of 15 cases of subversive activities, we're going to be very certain here in Massachusetts that no fifth column sneaks into the committee."

The general was referring to an announcement by Police Commissioner Valentine of New York that the FBI found 15 suspects among the city's air raid wardens.

Needham declined to give out names of those dismissed for having criminal records pointing out "they've paid their debts to society but have no place in this organization."

The investigation will be conducted by the committee, Needham said. He emphasized that loyal members "need have no fears" and said only suspected cases will be turned over to the FBI for further check.

FBI SEIZES DR. CHROUST, HUB NAZIST

Dr. Anthony Mermann Chroust, distinguished German law expert and graduate of Harvard Law School, has been taken into custody by FBI agents as an enemy alien. He is held at the East Boston Immigration Station, it was learned today.

Chroust was born in Wurzburg, Germany, and received a law degree from Erlanger Universiyt before coming to this country in the spring of 1932 to enroll at Harvard Law School. Harvard granted him a degree of Doctor of Juridical Science, highest degree given by the school.

He has studied at the university intermittently since then and is well known at the Harvard Athletic Ass'n pool as a water polo expert.

Chroust is said to have frequently expressed sympathy for the Nazis to various Harvard acquaintances, condoning their cruelties and seeking to justify their methods, according to the authorities.

500 Students In B. & M. Crash

Five hundred Phillips Exeter Academy students escaped injury today when their train sideswiped a 6-car freight train in the Boston & Maine yard, near Prison Pt. Bridge.

One freight car, loaded with waste wool, was toppled on its side and another tilted prevariously. Only slight damage resulted to the passenger locomotive.

The youngsters remained calmly in the cars while B. & M. o'ficials sent an auxiliary engine to haul the train to North Station. The students were en route to a special showing of the Ice Follies at the Garden.

Timothy Hawkes was engineer of the passenger train and Norman Trenoweth was fireman. Cause of the mishap was not immediately determined.

NAVY OFFERS TRAINING PLAN TO COLLEGES

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—Joseph W. Barker of the Navy Department said the Navy was announcing today a plan whereby every accredited institution of higher learning could participate in Navy training with a non-militarized pre-induction program.

Barker, former dean of Columbia University engineering school, is special assistant to the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. He described the new plan in an address prepared for delivery to the Institute of Military Studies.

NO NAVAL DRILL

He said it permitted youth desiring to enter the Navy to direct activities and studies of their pre-induction years into those channels of greatest usefulness to the Navy. It does not resurrect the students army training corps, put college men into uniform or require naval drill, he said.

The Navy will accept voluntary enlistment as apprentice seamen (V-1) of not more than 80,000 men a year between 17 and 19 years inclusive, who will continue in college at their own expense, taking pre-induction naval training on an inactive status for two academic years.

The pre-induction curricula will be prepared by and courses given by, the regular college faculties.

GENERAL EXAMINATION

After approximately three semesters, the V-1 men will be given a general examination. Those ranking sufficiently high may volunteer for aviation cadet flying training. Up to 20,000 a year will be permitted to finish at least the equivalent of the fourth semester of college before being transferred to the V-5 program for training to be officer-pilots.

Up to 15,000 a year of others ranking high will be transfegred to V-7 enlistment, continued on inactive duty and permitted to pursue school programs acceptable to the Navy Department to the bachelor's degree as long as they maintain satisfactory academic standards and the exigencies of war permit.

Those V-1 men whose examination grades are too low to permit making the above choices will be allowed to finish the four-semester pre-induction training program at college and then be called to active duty as apprentice seamen, sent to naval training stations and ordered to sea or shore duty as the needs may be

Leaving Door Open Costs Guest $7070

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21 (AP)—Miss Mary Stewart forgot twice last night. The two memory lapses cost her $7070. She forgot a $1500 dismond ring in her hotel room—and left the door unlocked. Thieves took the ring, other jewelry and an ermine coat, she told police.

HINGHAM DRIVER HURT

Frank Poole, 28, of Butler rd., Hingham, was seriously injured today when his car went out of control on Ft. Hill st., Hingham, struck two telegraph poles and was completely demolished. He was taken to Weymouth Hospital.

Tire Shortage's All Solved--Just Sweep the Streets!

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21 (AP)—Dr. Carl Omeron, a dentist whose hobby is scientific research, estimates that each car deposits about four pounds of rubber a year on city streets.

He proposes street sweeping machines to scoop that rubber from the pavement into a special hopper and estimates that Los Angeles streets alone should yield 1,000,000 pounds a year.

JAPS SLEEP MARCHING, U. S. OFFICERS SAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—An American Army officer who served with a Japanese infantry regiment in peacetime reported today that the troops sometimes marched more than two days and nights without sleep.

Maj. Harold Doud, a former language student in Tokyo, said in the Infantry Journal that in a somewhat field maneuver "sometimes the men slept while walking."

At the end of the maneuvers, he said the company to which he was attached marched almost continuously from 8 a. m. one day until 10 a. m. the following day, covering 56 miles afoot.

At the end of one 25-mile hike Maj. Doud said a company was required to trot at double-time around their barracks area just to prove that they were "not nearly so tired as they may think they are."

To accustom men to great exertion in extreme heat, such as the Japanese invaders have met in the tropical southwest Pacific in the last two months, Doud said battalion parades are held in the hottest part of the day, with officers as well as men taking part.

Doud, whose home is listed by the War Department as Fremont Mich., was graduated from West Point in 1926 and now is a signal corps officer.

Nazis Fall Back West of Tobruk

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 21 (AP)—German troops and armored forces withdrew to the north after an encounter with British patrols on the Tmimi-Mechili line west of Tobruk, the British announced today.

The war bulletin said:

"Operating over a wide front west of Ain El Gazala, our fighting patrols again reached several points on the track from Tmimi to 32 Mechili.

"Parties of the enemy including tanks were encountered but the general tendency of enemy patrols was to withdraw northwards.

"Some of the enemy were observed at Tmimi and considerable enemy forces were in and around El Mechili.

"Owing to adverse weather conditions, air activity on both sides was curtailed seriously."

Boy State Flier Dies In Canada Crash

TRENTON, Ont., Feb. 21 (AP)—Pilot officers C. F. Hanisch of South Attleboro, Mass., and J. D. Douglas of St. Paul's Ont., were killed near here last night when a Royal Canadian air force training aircraft from Trenton air station crashed in a rural district.

Hanisch was an instructor. Cause and details of the accident were unknown. A court of inquiry will investigate it.

Junior Army Ready For 2 New Courses

The 13,000 recruits of the Junior Victory Army are on the eve of their first training assignment.

This is the First Aid course to be printed in the Daily Record and the Physical Fitness course to appear in the Evening American.

Meanwhile enrollees will be glad to learn that the first shipment of insignia pins are on their way to Boston from the manufacturing plant. As soon as it arrives the pins will be distributed by mail on the "first come, first served" basis announced some time ago.

All the recruits who sent dimes with their enrollment blanks will receive the attractive red, white and blue pins. The insignias will be mailed rapidly as shipments reach Boston headquarters.

The first lesson of the 14 in the First Aid course will be printed Monday in the Record with an important introduction to appear in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. This introduction will explain what equipment is needed and what will be learned in the 14 lessons.

HAVE LESSONS

The equipment is very simple and can be obtained in the home or at small expense.

The other big feature, the Physical Course, was written especially for Junior Army members by Joe McKenney, associate director of physical education of Boston public schools and for years an outstanding athlete at Brighton High school and Boston College where he starred in football.

Lessons in the Physical Fitness course will appear one each day in the Evening American beginning Tuesday.

All boys and girls in the Junior Victory Army should give careful study to every lesson in both these subjects.

Each lesson should be clipped from the newspaper and pasted in a scrapbook for future reference. Recruits can buy inexpensive scrapbooks that will fill the purpose if they do not have them.

FIRST LESSON MONDAY

With other interesting features to follow and with these lessons mounted neatly in orderly arrangement, the scrapbooks will prove interesting souvenirs of service in the Junior Victory Army.

Remember, Recruits, the introduction to the First Aid course will appear in the Sunday Advertiser tomorrow. The first lesson will be printed Monday in the Daily Record with one lesson to follow each day until the course is completed. The Physical Fitness course will begin Tuesday in the Evening American and a lesson will be printed each day in that newspaper until it is finished.

PRACTICE BLACKOUTS

Under direction of Arthur T. Burger, executive director of the Boys' Clubs of Boston, young Victory Volunteers of Charlestown, Roxbury and South Boston, are pushing civilian defense measures, including the gathering of scrap metal and paper, training as air raid wardens and other services.

Practice blackouts have been held with members of the Charlestown clubhouse scurrying to shelters in less than a minute and those in the other two clubhouses at 50 Dudley st., Roxbury and at F and W. 6th sts., South Boston in equally fast time.

The Victory Volunteers are boys under 16 and are sworn in for their duties.

DISTRIBUTED JUNIOR ARMY BLANKS—These messenger boys are reading the addresses to which they delivered Junior Army enrollment blanks in the setting up of the first recruiting stations at the three Boys' Clubs of Boston, the Y. M. C. A. and its branches and the Y. W. C. A. and its Watertown branch. All Junior Army members, they are (l. to r.) Martin Connolly of Boston, John S. Morris, Jr., of Jamaica Plain; Chester J. Flynn of Somerville, and Edward F. O'Neill of East Boston.

JUNIOR Victory ARMY

ENROLLMENT BLANK

(Note: Enrollment is Open to All Boys and Girls 10 to 18 Years Old)

As a loyal American youth I wish to enroll in the Junior Army of New England and do my share in the defense of the United States. I promise to uphold and obey the laws of my city, state and country.

NAME _____ AGE _____

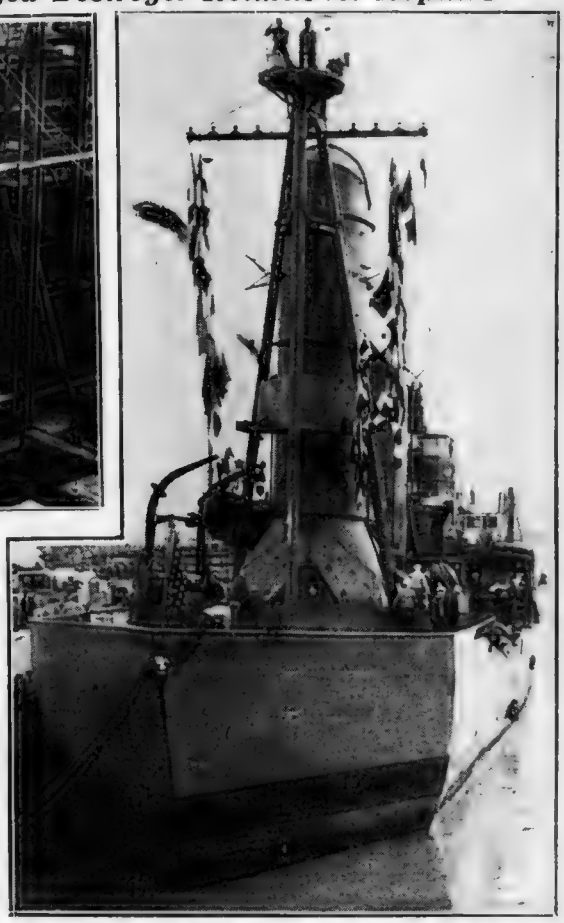
ANOTHER BOW FOR SHAW

Damaged Destroyer Returns for Repairs



The Shaw . . . With Bow That Brought Her Home

New Life

Damaged in the Pearl Harbor attack, the U. S. destroyer Shaw, equipped with an emergency stub bow, comes into a West Coast port . . . and there (above), construction of a new bow and bridge for the warship is started. Navy officers say repairs will soon be completed . . . and the Shaw will fight again.

Near Wings—Well on their way to coveted wings and commissions as second lieutenants are these aviation cadets, gathered on Randolph Field's famous flying line for a few words by their squad leader, Lieut. John S. Samuel.

International News Photo Service

OUR DAILY CITATION: To the talented young people of the Mission Church parish for their excellent presentation of "Pilate's Daughter," beautiful religious drama. Boston has few things to offer more inspiring than this famous Lenten play, repeated season after season for the past forty years.

ANOTHER of our important American anniversaries is at hand —this time, the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, first President of the United States.

In past years, it has been the common practice—and a very good one—to observe Washington's birthday by consulting his familiar and sound rules for keeping OUT of war.

However, since we are IN war now, and a most serious one, it is more to the point to consult his rules for WINNING a war.

An interesting and impressive fact evolves from that consultation.

He apparently did not distinguish between the two objectives, of preserving peace and of successfully conducting war, but in fact JOINED them.

When he said, as he did many times, that "to be prepared for war is the most effectual means of preserving peace," he did not contemplate that immunity from war would be the sole benefaction of such a policy.

He obviously concluded that a nation adequately and at all times prepared for war would thus avoid some wars, and be in the best possible position to win the wars it did not avert.

WASHINGTON WAS TOO SENSIBLE and realistic a man to foresee perpetual peace as the destiny of America.

He knew this was going to be a very rich and prosperous land, with its possessions universally envied and coveted, and its shores in constant danger of attack and aggression.

He knew, moreover, that long periods of peace under conditions of increasing opulence—which it was not difficult to foresee for America—would dull the vigilance of the people and their government.

Wherefore, he repetitiously preached the doctrine of adequate armament—surely not in false expectation that permanent peace could always be thus assured, but in realistic belief that when the inevitable wars of the future DID embroil America, victory would be more confidently anticipated and peace more expeditiously restored.

Adequate armament and preparedness was the essential element of the American creed, as Washington expounded it.

He stressed it on all possible occasions, in his speeches and his writings.

He implored the Congress to give it heed.

He pleaded with the people to always maintain a government faithful to it.

He conceived the greatest merit of democracy to be in the basic principle that it would always be within the power of the people to have a government representative of and responsive to the people.

But what concerned him most was the possibility that the vigilance and diligence of the people might some day be so lax as to permit dilatory and improvident government to exist, and thus to make the people themselves prey to aggression.

WASHINGTON'S FEARS are realized in our perilous situation today.

For a long period of years we have suffered government to neglect the essential creed of adequate armament, and thus by our own indifference and neglect have invited the aggression and attack with which we must now cope.

Now of course we cannot consult Washington for the purpose of preventing war.

But we can, and surely MUST, consult and obey his fundamental rule for WINNING war—the identical rule by which he contemplated peace could be kept in some instances and victoriously restored in all other instances.

Belatedly now, but still in sufficient time, we must have the effectual arms, effort, service and sacrifice by means of which American liberty, justice and democracy and America itself are to be preserved.

Washington would understand our problems today. He conducted and WON a war for which America was not prepared.

He would also understand the single duty which we must now fulfill—the duty with which we are charged by those from whom we inherited this free land and those for whom we have it in trust—the duty of overcoming all past weakness and error and of speedily assembling the overwhelming might and will of America for the preservation and perpetuation of freedom.

Peace is a precious thing, and must and will be attained—but our kind of life must be assured first, and made secure and indestructible.

Washington's birthday recalls these duties to us, and dedicates all our energies and hopes and loyalties to their full and victorious performance.

On The Side

-t- -t- By E. V. DURLING

Father to me thou art,
And mother dear,
And brother too
Kind husband of my heart.
—KEBLE.

THERE'S a very high grade husband described above. He must have been born on Aug. 20. One of those fellows whose wives say they are 100 per cent wonderful. I've heard the song "Daddy You've Been a Mother to Me." Perhaps some fortunate wife with a husband such as praised above would like to write a song, "Hubby, You've Been a Father, Brother and Mother to Me" . . . That contemporary columnist is still going to lunch with beautiful celebrities and getting a full column of material per celebrity by an interview. I am not criticizing him. Not at all. I'm jealous. That's a great idea. I am thinking of trying it. I don't know whether to start with Irene Dunne or Olivia De Havilland. Maybe I could have lunch with both of them. Think of going into the Stork Club or 21 for lunch with Irene Dunne on one arm and Olivia De Havilland on the other. Nice entrance, what?

PLEASE NOTE: Won't be long now until we know whether Nostradamus the prophet, who was so often right, was right about Hitler. According to the prophecies of Nostradamus, Hitler is to fall in April, 1942 . . . Now I have two readers in Rolling Prairie, Ind. Who knows, some day I may realize my ambition to have a reader in Put-in-Bay, Ohio . . . "I was born on Thursday. What does the prophetic poet say about those born on that date?" anxiously asks a Bostonian. The poet said:

Born of a Wednesday merry and glad
Born of a Thursday sour and sad.

SAYS HE: "As to divorcees seeking advice to make them more acceptable as matrimonial prospects," writes a Los Angeles bachelor, "first, a divorcee should abandon the 'all men are alike' angle. That is, she mustn't think because she picked a phony the first time all men are like that. She should not assume an 'I know all about it' attitude about matrimony and bore men with her efforts to show what a sophisticate she is. She should not put all the blame of her divorce on her husband nor keep on whining 'he done me wrong.' Such conversation from a divorcee is also very boring. Better she doesn't mention her ex-husband at all, except by request."

ADDED DETAILS: In St. Louis says Artie La Cour, there is a firm which specializes in hamburgers for dogs which are made out of horse meat and hamburgers for cats which are made from fish . . . As a soldier, one man between 18 to 23 is as good as two men of 35. That's what the experts state. What makes the younger man a better soldier is that he can do with less sleep than the older man . . . Description of heroine of magazine yarn: "The girl was flawless. She possessed a fluidity of body and movement that was amazing." That would be a good description of Lana Turner, if she could dance like Carmen Miranda.

SIDELIGHTS: Dieticians keep claiming the best time for the big meal of the day is two in the afternoon. They are probably right. But I like dinner about seven. Something to look forward to and no work to do after it . . . Did you see that cartoon of Hitler ordering a henchman: "Go to Spain and plead with her to join the Axis—but take 30 mechanized divisions with you" . . . After noting the names with which some kids have been saddled by their parents, I again say that at the age of 16 any youngster who doesn't like the name his folks gave him should be permitted to change it without too much legal difficulty . . . Tom Guptill of Port Angeles, Wash., enters the following in the "Poil" poem contest:

Doiling had a goil named Poil
But Doiling's goil wore no goidle
So he gave her the boid and the outboist he hoid
Made Doiling's hair coil and blood coidle.

SYMPATHETIC: New Yorker, signing herself "Little, But Oh, My!" writes: "Isn't it too bad the tall girls have so much difficulty in getting husbands and boy friends because all the tall men like cute, little tricks so much better. The trouble with the beanpole type girl is she works too hard to get a husband. It shows on her face. Nearly all tall girls have that 'husband huntress' look."

PASSING BY: Max Marchin, Playwright. Wrote that hit of the yesteryear, "Cheating Cheaters." Also wrote "The Big Fight," the play in which Jack Dempsey appeared under the direction and management of David Belasco. The critics were not impressed with Mr. Dempsey's histrionic ability, one having been so unkind as to say the Manassa Mauler was "handicapped by a high, squeaky voice" . . . Tommy Lyman. Dean of the crooners. Mr. Lyman can sing 1000 different songs by request, but the one he sings best is "Melancholy Baby" . . . Cong. Joseph C. Baldwin, Of New York. Mr. Baldwin believes women should be drafted, calling for all females between the ages of 18 and 65 to be registered for war service . . . Imogene Coca. Night club entertainer. Imogene first attracted attention when in the musical show "New Faces" she sang a ditty which went in part: "I hate men. I hate spring. I hate moonlight and roses. I love Radio City."

VICTOR MATURE DISAPPEARS

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—Victor Mature has disappeared. His studio is frantically trying to locate him for tests for his next picture, but doesn't know where to find him. His last words to his lawyer and friends were that he "needed a rest" . . . The Russ Morgans are lullabying a boy—their second bambino . . . Intimates say Paulette Goddard gave up the idea of a rancho in Mexico because of threats to her life that she couldn't ignore . . . Ginger Rogers is staying with the Bennett Cerfs. She's here to "have a good time" with Jean Gabin—and vice versa. Artie Shaw has discovered Carol Marcus.

OLE OLSEN'S strip tease at a Loner's Room cocktail party the other evening was simply hysterical. It followed his succumbing to the "electric chair" . . . Susan Brandeis, daughter of the late Supreme Court Justice, is working as an air raid warden . . . Harry Conover and John Powers, head of the town's two top model agencies, have kissed and made up. They tiffed when Conover—then a Powers model—left to form his own beauty registry . . . Phil Huston and Henry Brandon, of the "Macbeth" cast, are both agog over Judith Evelyn, the "Angel Street" Duse.

She packed them all off to local hospitals . . . Dinah Shore and Harmon Nelson are a consistent duet . . . Washington insiders are predicting a cabinet change—perhaps two—nudged by the WPB . . . That small riot in an East Side cabaret resulted in only one injury—a waiter conked with a flying bottle. But 50 customers walked out without paying their checks . . . Their friends are chatting again about the imminence of the Barbara Hutton-Cary Grant aisle-waltz. As soon as she gets back to California, they say . . . The Arch Obolers are knitting tiny garments.

AT LAST! . . . THE INIMITABLE Joe E. Lewis, the elfin, Puck-ish little comedy king of the Night-club Circuit, has been inspected and okayed for delivery in Hollywood . . . Paramount has signed him for three pictures, but his forthcoming Boston appearance, in late spring, may not be cancelled . . . Boston, however, will not see Luise Rainer in "A Kiss for Cinderella" on March 9, at the Plymouth, as the original booking guaranteed . . . The James N. Barrie play's revival will take place March 10 in New York . . . Police Commissioner Timilty's second party for the soldiers and sailors will bring out half-a-hundred musicians and entertainers, and the Copley-Plaza's full capacity, including the floors and foyers of the State Ballroom, the Ruby and Sheraton rooms, won't be nearly large enough tomorrow night for the throng of guests . . . AT LAST! JACK MAY PLAY FIDDLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Jack Benny

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21—Jack Benny will get his heart's desire and play his violin in a musical comedy Ernst Lubitsch has in mind and has wanted to produce for months. Benny and Lubitsch, as a star-director combination, are the talk of the town since "To Be or Not to Be." They're a spring tonic for each other, if you ask me. Of course, the musical is only in the talking stage, for Jack must keep a date at Warners for "The Widow Wouldn't Weep," and then he checks in at 20th Century-Fox for George M. Cohan's old play, "The Meanest Man in Town," the Bill Perlberg production.

Ernst is already on the 20th lot on a term deal, and he writes his own stories and does what he pleases, so I reckon we'll be hearing about a fully evolved Benny-Lubitsch musical before we know it.

A GROUP of Sally Benson's stories, published in the New Yorker before the advent of "Junior Miss," has been bought by M-G-M. They are intended for Judy Garland who, in spite of being a married woman, looks young enough to play a girl of 14. Judy's health is still worrying M-G-M and she has been ordered to take a complete rest until the studio gets her next movie, "The Big Time," ready for her. I talked with Mrs. Temple a few weeks ago and she told me Shirley is being signed for an air series based on "Junior Miss," the Benson play, one of the few Broadway shows to be doing a S. R. O. business these hectic days.

EVA GABOR'S divorced husband and Garbo's psychiatrist, Dr. Erich Drimmer, has been offered a movie job. This isn't the surprise it might seem because Dr. Drimmer, who is very good looking and resembles Lars Hansen, was groomed for screen work. In fact, he had a year's dramatic training with Ingrid Bergman in Sweden. Drimmer's movie offer comes from John Gallagher for "The Gypsy Cavalier," which is to be made at Columbia.

ALL THE TALK that Clark Gable is walking out on his picture, "Somewhere I'll Find You," is without any foundation or fact. Eddie Mannix is closer to Clark than anyone on the M-G-M lot, and he believes that one day—possibly next week—Clark will quietly walk into the studio and return to work.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: The only way Paramount can contact Madeleine Carroll is through Chase National Bank. She left no forwarding address; Clarence Brown is trying to get the state department to OK a passport to England. He wants to direct a movie there; Lieut. Jimmy Stewart was in town the other eve and he and Burgess Meredith took Olivia De Havilland to dinner. Burgess, by the way, is to take a test of both Father Chisholm and Dr. Tulloch ("Keys of the Kingdom") for David O. Selznick; Constance Bennett left last eve for Chicago to appear at a Russian benefit for the Victory Committee. She goes on to New York for the Navy Relief Show. Gilbert Roland accompanies her.

THAT'S ALL TODAY; see you tomorrow! But Maxie Rosenbloom says:

Mioland Proves He Is Ready

THERE HAVE been so many name horses running out of the money or failing to do better than finish second or third at Hialeah Park that old Jawn Public overlooked Charles S. Howard's Mioland. Pictor was established an odds on favorite, and Mioland came on to win for a payoff of $6.70. Considering the fact Mioland was coupled as an entry with Porter's Cap the payoff was particularly surprising.

Sir Marlboro, Dave Wilson's choice, was second and paid $6.70 in the middle.

Those bettors who have been playing Wilson's three top choices in the daily double have been having field days. Wilson's second choice, Hoosier Wolf, won the first race yesterday, while his first selection, Bellcoda, took the second race. The daily double payoff was $107.70.

The previous day one of Wilson's top choices, and a second choice came through.

One would have a substantial profit for the Hialeah meeting if he had backed Wilson's doubles.

Wilson's code horses also continue to show a profit for the year. Dave's code proved in 1940 and in 1941 that one can beat the races if he picks first class horses. In both of these years, Wilson's bankroll went over the top.

Florida Sand

I find that I still have the sand of Florida in my shoes. Once this happens to a person, he eventually ends up in the South each winter.

This writer was the first person to ever wire a daily sports column from Florida. That was back in 1929 when Jack Sharkey fought "Young" Stribling at Miami Beach. Ten years previous I had gone to Tampa, Fla. with the Red Sox. In those days, the real growth of Florida had barely started.

Al Lang used to come over to Tampa from St. Petersburg to see the Red Sox practice, and frequently invited me to visit his town. To get to St. Petersburg, it was necessary to go by boat, and I never seemed to get up early enough in the morning to make the necessary boat connections.

There are now bridges and causeways connecting St. Petersburg with the mainland, and it has become one of the liveliest cities in the South.

Hialeah Park is my Florida objective. I shall leave Boston on the same train with the Red Sox party on Tuesday morning. When the Red Sox cut over to the West Coast and Sarasota from Jacksonville, I shall continue merrily down the East Coast. I would probably end up with fewer headaches if I were to spend a month at one of the baseball camps, but such a life might not be as exciting as the one I'll find on the East Coast.

I shall bring along my golf clubs. Through the efforts of Bill Grimes, I will have at least a dozen golf balls in my bag.

Florida courses as a matter of fact are swell spots for 100 golfers like myself. There are wide open fairways with numerous traps and very little rough. One seldom loses a golf ball. As a result a dozen golf balls should be sufficient to get me through my Florida campaign.

Now if Dave Wilson can get me some winners everything will be all right.

Tropical Meeting

Hialeah Park is reaching the climax of its season. Today there was to be the McLennan Memorial, named in honor of Charley McLennan's dad.

A week from today I'll be trying to pick the winner of the Flamingo, and on the following Saturday I shall be busy trying to figure out the winner of the $50,000 Widener Cup race.

Jack Fitz Gerald tells me Tropical Park will then swing open for its Spring meeting. Jack writes as follows:

"The 'friendly and formal' Tropical opens two weeks from Monday. All stakes with exception of $10,000 added Tropical Handicap have been increased. That's meeting's headliner. There are six in all.

"Good distance horse gets a belt at $22,500 in prize money. In addition to above there also is $7500 added Coral Gables Handicap. Both are at a mile and a furlong. Then there's the $5000 added Ponce de Leon Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth.

"No other track in the country operating during the same period is offering anything like this in purses.

"Charley Howard has promised to race Mioland and Porter's Cap here, with other name horses anticipated. Meeting should be real big.

"Alsab flopped again and apparently needs a short rest. This would enable him to start on fresh training for Kentucky Derby. He's plainly not himself and deserves a fair chance. However, Sabath has stated he'll run in the Flamingo. I wouldn't have a ticket on him there. Bright Willie looks best present prospect for that stake.

"War Relic shapes up as brightest Widener chance, though Mioland may move the class. Training famously, Challedon was only looking on in recent mile and a furlong. Woolf had him in middle of track all the way. Throw that one out. Market Wise training with bar plate and Carroll says he'll run in McLennan on Saturday."

DODDS, RICE DUEL AGAIN; 4:06 M'MITCHELL'S GOAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Leslie MacMitchell, who learned to run on the sidewalks of New York, is ready for an effort to shatter one of the oddest records in one of trackdom's most popular events, the 4.07.4 clocking in the one-mile run.

PLOTS RECORD TWO-MILES. Gil Dodds, left, and his coach, Jack Ryder of Boston College and B. A. A., go over plans for an 8:50 two-mile run tonight at the New York A. C. meet. He may make the time but he'll have to beat Greg Rice, the record holder, in the bargain and Rice hasn't been beaten in 41 straight races.

Three men in four different meets have been timed in exactly those figures; no person ever has run the distance faster in indoor competition, and all four times the trick was turned on the 11-lap track in Madison Square Garden where MacMitchell will attempt to erase the mark tonight in the annual New York A. C. meet.

COMPLETELY RECOVERED

Chuck Fenske, formerly of Wisconsin and now a member of the armed forces, twice was caught in that time within two weeks during the 1940 winter season.

Glenn Cunningham, the prancing Kansan, established the mark on March 12, 1938, and MacMitchell equalled it in February a year ago. Cunningham, also in 1938, galloped a mile in 4.04.4 on the Dartmouth oval with three opponents running against him in relays.

MacMitchell, completely recovered from the cold which handicapped him in the Millrose games two weeks ago, has a goal of 3:06 for the three-quarter mile tonight and hopes his momentum will carry him across the finish in 4.06 or thereabouts.

WARMERDAM MISSING

Greg Rice, the tireless mile from Notre Dame, says his sprained knee will not trouble him in his heralded two-mile duel with Gilbert Dodds, the divinity student representing the Boston A. A. Rice has been under nine minutes in every one of his four outings this winter and at the Millrose games did 8:52.8, second fastest in history, to beat Dodds by four strides.

With the absence of Cornelius Warmerdam, Earle Meadow's efforts to accomplish 15 feet in the pole vault will highlight the field events and there are 41 mile and two-mile relay teams to fill out the program.

FRISCH LEADS BUCCS WEST

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21 (AP)—The first contingent of Pittsburgh Pirates entrained today for their Southern California camp to start training for their third season under Manager Frankie Frisch.

Those scheduled to roll westward today included Pitchers Max Butcher, Johnny Lanning, Hank Gornicki and Don Kerr; Catchers Babe Phelps and Bill Baker, and Outfielder Johnny Barrett.

Frisch and Pitchers Nick Strincevich, Ken Jungels and Bill Brandt planned to join the squad in Chicago tonight. Following a 9-day workout at El Centro, Cal., the batteries and the rest of the team will assemble for practice at the San Bernardino training grounds.

The Boston Typo Sports Ass'n will hold its second annual bowling tournament next Monday afternoon, Washington's Birthday, at the Huntington alleys. All members of union print shops are eligible.

A number of fine prizes have been donated, including defense bonds and stamps.

Yankees Sign Ernie Bonham, Tom Henrich

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—The New York Yankees today announced the signing of Pitcher Ernie Bonham, who won 9 and lost 6 last year, and Outfielder Tommy Henrich as the first contingent entrained for Spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Henrich brought in his signed papers and then returned to his Massilon, O., home since he is not scheduled to report until next week. No announcement was made of the salary terms but Henrich is believed to have signed for in the neighborhood of $16,000.

Tommy, who was 26 yesterday told President Ed Barrow that his draft status is uncertain and that he was waiting reclassification. His local board placed him in 1-A last January, but since he is married, Tommy said he thought he would be re-classified.

"I don't know how long I can play ball," he said, "but one way or the other, I'll still be with the Yankees."

Kampouris First Dodgers' Casualty

HAVANA, Feb. 21 (AP)—Alex Kampouris, utility infielder with the Brooklyn Dodgers, will be lost to the National League champions for three weeks because of a broken little finger on his right hand.

Kampouris was injured yesterday at the first hitting drill of the season. During Mickey Owen's stay in the cage, the bat slipped from the catcher's hand and struck Kampouris' finger.

'I-Beat-Whirly' Club Shoots For $10,000

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—Ten members of the exclusive "I-Beat-Whirlaway" club and 15 other fleet thoroughbreds bulged the field today for the $10,000 McLennan Handicap, perhaps the last big preview of the $50,000 Widener March 7.

Two of Whirlaway's conquerors, Glen Riddle Farms' War Relic and Louis Tufano's Market Wise, were backed heavily, along with Arnold Hanger's Dit, winner of his first start here.

But Woodvale Farm's Our Boots and Francis D. Scully's Ponty, each with a decision over Warren Wright's 1941 three-year-old champ, found themselves largely overlooked by selectors and the betting public.

Early odds favored Dit, War Relic and Market Wise, with Our Boots and the Circle M. Ranch entry of Get Off and Haltal next in line. Racing men insisted that the soft condition of the track would help Dit and Market Wise, renowned mud runners.

216 CHASE A. A. A. U. TRACK TITLES AT TUFTS

With a generous sprinkling of newly inducted soldiers as competitors, the New England A. A. A. U. Track and Field Committee will present one of the best balanced fields in its history next Monday at the annual indoor championships in Tufts College Cage. A total of 216 entries have been received.

Among the features to be unveiled is a mile relay that has drawn as contenders Boston College, Holy Cross, Tech, Northeastern, Tufts varsity, Tufts freshmen, B. A. A., Newton Y. M. C. A. and the 369th Field Artillery from Camp Edwards. Walter Hall, popular Tufts captain who was nipped for third place in the hurdles at the B. A. A. meet last Saturday by George Gilson of Holy Cross, will seek to avenge that beating when he faces his Crusader adversary over the 40-yard high sticks.

"Boo" Morcom, sensational New Hampshire University sophomore from Braintree, who tied with Olympian Mel Walker for first place in the high jump and finished third to Carl Warmerdam and Lee Meadows in the pole vault epic at last Saturday's Unicorn classic, has entered in his specialties and looks like a sure bet for honors as the meet's outstanding performer.

Capt. Mike Prohodsky of Northeastern, intercollegiate titlist, heads an eight-man field in the 3-mile run, while B. C. gridster Angelo Sisti, boasting a 49 foot, 8 inch heave, is favored over nine other contenders for shotput honors.

Two of the top ranking field men in the East will come to grips in the 35-pound weight test when Norman Wilcox of Rhode Island State faces New Hampshire U's Ed Styrna.

Fair Grounds Rolls Down Curtain

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21 (AP)—The curtain will roll down today at the historic Fair Grounds after the successful revival of racing on the track where Col. E. R. Bradley once ran $50,000 derbies and the immortal Black Gold lies buried in the infield.

Stealing the show on the final card, featuring a couple of allowance races, will be the windup of the spirited riding duel between the nation's two leading jockeys of the year.

Jimmy George and Eric Guerin, tied at 45 victories each for the 44-day meeting, will be battling for top honors. George put on a spurt in the last two days to gain a tie.

The Fair Grounds Breeding and Racing Ass'n, operators of the track, stepped in after racing was discontinued last winter and saved the Fair Grounds from being broken down into a residential section by the auctioneer's hammer.

Although the venture did not prove profitable, the association is making plans for racing next winter.

Canadians Show Yanks How to Ski

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP) — The Royal Canadian Air Force is showing Americans how to ski.

Competing in the annual Lake Placid invitation ski meet, Sergt. Pilot Louis Cochand, yesterday won the downhill event. Today he competes in the slalom, with the ski jump scheduled for tomorrow.

Cochand outran a field of 20 competitors in both heats down the tough rimrock trail on Mt. Jo. Second was another skier, George Jost of Toronto, while Case Prime, Lake Placid High School boy, finished third.

Arthur Devlin, Placid's star jumper who was trying the downhill for the first time, took sixth place, while Torger Tokle, the Norwegian champion leaper, was disqualified when he broke his sticks on both runs.

In the women's competition for the Kate Smith trophy, Dorothy Hoyt of Schenectady took downhill honors over a field that included Marilyn Shaw, Stowe, Vt., national champion. Canadians also are competing.

Joan Hinton of the Green Mountain Ski Club and Henrietta Sharp of the Woodstock Club took second and third, respectively, to help land the American women's team in the lead at the end of the first day. Miss Shaw finished fifth.

Today, in addition to the slalom in both men's and women's ski classes, a dozen two-man bobsled teams take the slide on Mt. Van Hoevenberg to compete for the Lowell Thomas trophy.

Auto Gift Fete Tops Irving Burns' Career

By HERB FINNEGAN

This is an "oldie" but it concerns Irving Jack Burns, and it may bear re-telling in view of Jack's recent appointment as manager of the Braves farm club at Bradford.

It happened in 1936, when the Cambridge-born first baseman was with the Detroit Tigers. That was the year Hank Greenberg was sidelined with a broken wrist, you may recall.

The Tigers had just finished their daily stint and were dressing in the clubhouse. Schoolboy Rowe piped up and said how the Chevrolet people were tossing a banquet that night and would give pen and pencil sets to any of the Tigers appearing there.

Ballplayers, as a rule, shun public appearances, and the Detroiters were no exceptions. Schoolboy pleaded and cajoled and wheedled, but the best he could do was to round up seven who promised to attend.

They were Schoolboy himself, Goose Goslin, Gerald Walker, Marvin Owen, Joe Sullivan, a rookie shortstop by the name of Salty Parker and Burns.

NEEDED A PEN

"Funny thing," Burns recalled, "but I had just lost my fountain pen the day before, and thought it would be a good chance to replace it.

"Joe Sullivan (later with the Braves) lived in the same apartment hotel with me and promised to call for me at 7 p. m. The banquet was staged at the Book-Cadillac Hotel, right handy to us, and we were going to walk over.

"But at the last minute Sully rapped on my door, said his cousin, whom he hadn't seen for 15 years just dropped in and couldn't very well give him the duck. So Sully stayed home.

"It was the usual banquet procedure with the president of the Chevrolet—a Mr. Holler, I believe—at the head table flanked by the six Detroit ball players.

"We tucked away our filet mignon, listened to a few speeches, took our bow when introduced, and then were stunned when we heard Mr. Holler announce: 'And now we have a surprise for the six ballplayers who were good enough to honor us with their presence tonight.'

"You know what that surprise was?" Jack exclaimed, reveling in the pleasant reminiscence. "A brand new Chevrolet to every one of us. We thought it was a joke at first but the very next afternoon six new Chevvies were driven to the park and delivered to us personally.

"Well," Jack chuckled, "maybe the other players' faces didn't turn red, particularly when young Salty Parker stepped up to get his car. Few on the club knew him because he had just come up the day before from Toledo to replace Rogell, who had been injured. Yup, came up just in time to get a free automobile.

"We were all so tickled we kicked in $25 apiece and bought a silver baseball mounted on a trophy and had it autographed by the entire club. The six of us went down one morning and presented it to this Mr. Holler.

TRAVELING BAGS, TOO

"And, believe it or not, the old fellow was so thankful he called a secretary, and the latter came back in a few minutes with traveling bags for every one of us. Dandies, too. Must have been worth $50 each.

"Well, when the players heard about this new gift, I thought there'd be an insurrection. There were some pretty disappointed boys on the club who made it a point to attend every banquet they were invited to for the rest of the season but no more Chevvies were forthcoming.

"But of all the birds who 'took the heat' none was more burned up than Lefty Joe Sullivan. Every day as he trudged to the bull pen I could hear him mumbling to himself:

"'Cousin, cousin. The dirty second-so. Hadn't seen the guy in 15 years, and he shows up just in time to gyp me out of a new car. Hope I don't see him for another 15. Wish I never had a cousin.'"

Irving Jack Burns has had a lot of pleasant days in baseball, may have more, too, because we have a hunch he'll wind up at first base for the Braves this season. But of all his pleasant days none will linger longer or more pleasantly in his memory than that mid-summer day in 1936 when he attended the Chevrolet Co.'s banquet.

HOPEFULS—The New York Giants have a pitching problem, and Manager Mel Ott hopes that one or two of these boys may solve it. They are the rookie pitchers now strutting their stuff at the Giants' training camp in Miami. Left to right: Sal Maglie, Tom Sunkel, Reuben Fischer, Hugh East, Harry Feldman and Dave Koslo. Sunkel is considered best by Manager Ott. Former Manager Bill Terry, now a front office man, prefers Southpaw Koslo. Proof of the pudding is going to be, as usual, in the eating.

QUINN URGES BALL PLAYING MECHANICS TO STICK TO DEFENSE JOBS FOR DURATION

By BILL GRIMES

"If there are any players on our roster whom the U. S. government is paying enough money to cause them to hesitate about signing their 1942 contracts, I'll gladly relinquish all claims on them, for they are far too valuable to their country to be playing baseball during the present emergency," declared the Braves' Bob Quinn today.

Just prior to making the above statement, Quinn had read in a story out of Texas that "Dizzy" Trout had returned his 1942 contract to Jack Zeller, saying he could make more money in defense work than the Detroit club was willing to pay him.

"From what I gather, there are any number of ball players in munition plants and on defense projects," continued Quinn. "But most of them are pushing brooms for nominal salaries.

"Doubtless some of the broom pushers would like to have you believe they are drawing down big money, but most of them are looking eagerly toward their first baseball pay day.

"On the other hand, there are ball players who are trained mechanics and therefore in a position to earn a good wage.

"It's that class, in my opinion, which should quit the game for the duration and devote its efforts to winning the war.

"I have not encountered any of those 'I can make more money in defense work' boys. But if I do, I'll be ready to unload with both barrels.

"As tough as it is to get ball players, I repeat, that the Braves do not want anyone on their active roster who is qualified to fill a munitions plant or a defense project job calling for a $75 or higher a week salary.

"Regardless of such a player's baseball ability, we'll gladly make the sacrifice and also have him placed on the voluntary retired list. At a time like this, our country comes first and baseball must carry on with whatever it is able to salvage."

Billy Wietelmann, who has worked for Bob Quinn for five years, although only 22 years of age, has returned his signed contract. He broke in at Beaver Falls, Pa., in 1937, spent the next season at Evansville, under Bob Coleman, and then moved to Hartford in '39, sat on the bench for a season and a half with the Braves and was returned to Hartford last summer.

Shortly after the close of the 1941 season, Billy's father died. Young Wietelmann, who has been the sole support of his family since his second year in organized baseball and who is putting an older brother through college, will take his mother to the Braves' training camp at Sanford, Fla.

Don Manno, who was on the Braves list, has been given his unconditional release. Manno, a graduate of West Chester State Teachers College, had an offer to manage the Welch, W. Va., club of the Mountain State League, so Bob Quinn made him a free agent.

Although he wasn't able to make the major league grade, Manno was a fine asset to the Braves organization for five years, winding up as manager at Hartford last season.

Under the terms with which Manno went to the Mountain State League, the Evansville club, a Braves' "farm" in the Three Eye League, will have a working agreement with Welch.

TABOR LEADS SOX SOUTH

After making one false start and being penalized the customary three yards, Eddie Doherty finally broke away for Sarasota this morning. The Sox ballyhoo artist, accompanied by Mrs. Eleanor Doherty, left his Newton home by automobile at dawn (7 a. m., now), planning to make Baltimore by evening. From there he will take the night boat to Norfolk, then continue his drive southward. He plans to arrive at the Sox training base late Monday night or Tuesday morning.

Doherty is the first of the Red Sox to depart for the training camp, but he won't be the first to arrive there. Jim Tabor, will leave from Back Bay station at 8:20 tomorrow morning, accompanied by Johnny Orlando, and they will arrive at Sarasota Monday afternoon. Jim plans to get in some rigid conditioning work before the first contingent reports for practice next Thursday morning.

• • •

Tabor had not signed his contract when we met him at Johnny Orlando's farewell party Thursday night, but planned to go into another huddle with Eddie Collins today to straighten out the slight tangle which exists. It was expected his John Hancock would be on the dotted line before nightfall.

Johnny Pesky, 21, and Class 1-A in the draft, has sent his signed contract and will battle it out with Dorchester's Eddie Pellagrini for the Sox shortstop job in Sarasota. Pesky batted .325 at Louisville last season and was voted the most valuable player in the association. He stands 5-10 and weighs 165. Like Pellagrini he is fast and a slick fielder. Unlike Pellagrini he bats left-handed and hits a short ball. Both these factors may tell against him because Fenway Park is a right-handed hitter's paradise, especially one who hits a long ball. Pesky has such a high number in the draft that his Portland, Ore., board has told him he may be able to finish the season with the Sox. His battle with Pellagrini will be the most interesting to take place at Sarasota.

So Ted Williams is still 1-A, eh? That makes it a certainty in our book that Joe Cronin will tune himself for outfield duty this season. With Williams missing, Cronin's batting thump will be needed more than ever. It's our belief Joe will play left field at Fenway Park, which is no difficult trick, then fill in at the various infield spots while the club is on the road

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., Feb. 21 (INS)—Dartmouth College skiers today held a three-point margin over New Hampshire as the second day of the Intercollegiate Ski Union championships opened.

'Strangler' Starts Another Climb

Ed "Strangler" Lewis will try to gain another shot at the championship he once held when he tackles Chief Osley Saunooke, 300-pound Cherokee Indian, in the main event of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling show at the Arena next Wednesday night.

Lewis still claims that he was given an unfair decision when he recently lost a disputed decision to the champion, The Angel.

"Sliding Bill" Hansen, Salt Lake City, will take on Lee Henning, Australia, in the semi-final, while a special match will have El Diablo vs. Sam Gardner, Villanova.

Preliminary bouts include Rowdy Rudy LaDitzi, Poughkeepsie vs. Pete Baltran, Lithuania, and Dr. John "Dropkick" Murphy, Malden, vs. Les Ryan, New York.

MONTREAL SIX PLAYS 'STARS' ON HOLIDAY

Montreal Catholic High, champions of the Senior Montreal Interscholastic Hockey League, are scheduled to show Boston fans how the ice game really should be played when they tangle on the holiday afternoon at Boston Garden with the Greater Boston All-Stars.

In a preliminary clash, the Boston College freshmen will meet the All-Stars second team.

On the same afternoon, the Eastern Massachusetts and the Bay State Hockey leagues will send the stars of their respective leagues into battle at the Boston Arena.

PERRON RETURNS

In the Garden engagement, the Canadians will present one of the most powerful sextets ever shown here by schoolboys. They have trounced everything on the Canadian side of the border and are bringing back Andy Perron, who almost single-handed downed the Greater Boston All-Stars a year ago by a 6 to 2 score. Just a few weeks ago, Perron scored 10 points, five goals and five assists, in a game against D'Arcy High School in Montreal.

Most experts consider Perron the greatest schoolboy hockey player in North America. Others in the Montreal squad are Jack Gallinseau, Jack Morrow and Bob Lilley.

Two veterans of former campaigns play defense, Elie Frigon and Frankie Graham. Gerry Coleman guards the nets.

The Greater Boston will ice the entire first line of league champion Melrose, Lou Spadafora runner up for the league scoring honors, Ed Cahoon, star playmaker, and Tom Dockrell, one of the best passers in the game.

KRAATZ AT CENTER

At defense will be found hefty Jim Kerrigan, Stoneham, and Chuck Bennett, Medford.

The Bay State-Eastern Mass. fray, although shy of the glitter of the traditional Garden game, will provide more thrills than have been seen in any Arena clash this semester.

Wakefield, the Eastern Mass. crown wearer, has placed five players on the starting team, Bill Cullen, Joe Czarnota and Earle Richardson on the first line, and MacDonald at defense, with Vidito at goal.

Bobbie Davidson, Dedham defenseman, is the only outsider.

Two Waltham men will play on the Bay State front line, Charley Butler and Ed Thomas. Joe Kraatz, B. C. High, will hold down the center slot.

Ralph Basset, Walpole, and Walter Delorey, Watertown, will open the game at defense, while Bob Howell, Quincy, wi. be in the net.

CAIN BOLSTERS BRUINS FOR RANGERS GAME

Herb Cain, injured left winger of the Bruins, returns to action next Tuesday night for the first time in three weeks when the Bruins play the New York Rangers at the Boston Garden. Cain was hurt in a game in Toronto January 31, which game also lost Bruins the services of their star defenseman and great captain, Dit Clapper.

Assurance of Cain's return fit to play, prompted Manager Art Ross to send Phil Hergesheimer to Hershey. The former Chicago winger has been unable to have sufficient practice work in game play to condition himself for National League hockey. He will get the necessary play with Hershey.

ROSS LAUDS HOLLETT

Reviewing the Bruins' experiences on the road when they lost to Chicago 2-0 and Americans 6-4, Ross said that the team proved itself a hard fighting outfit and that with a little better share of the breaks, they would have won both games.

Flash Hollett drew particular praise from the Bruins manager. Ross said that particularly in New York against the Americans Thursday he played in outstanding manner and that his line with Hiller and Bruce on the wings was the most effective Boston combination.

"BUSHER" MAY BE SHELVED

Harvey "Busher" Jackson received a wrist injury against the Americans which may keep him out of action against Rangers Tuesday. The Bruins were hopeful for his early return to play.

The game with the Rangers will be the first of three Bruins will play at home. After Rangers they meet the Detroit Red Wings Sunday night, and the Toronto Maple Leafs on March 3.

Mee Joins Pics In Baltimore

The Olympics enjoy a rest today in Baltimore after taking a 6 to 3 belting from the Washington Eagles. They'll tackle the Orioles at Carlin's Iceland tomorrow night.

They return to Garden ice on Monday for the first time in two weeks. The Atlantic Sea Gulls will offer the Monday night contention.

The Gulls are in for a rough passage when they invade the depot. Bert Corbeau showed little or no mercy in defeating the 'Pics, 9-2, last week. The locals were a badly crippled club on that occasion and will be out to avenge their humiliating experience at the hands of the Corbozos.

Bob Mee joins the Olympics in Baltimore tomorrow evening. Mee, a veteran defenseman, has been coaching the Boston College yearlings this winter. He will fill a gaping right defense berth, left vacant by the departure of both Clare Martin and Al Yourkewicz.

Ski Season Hits Peak Over Holiday Week-end

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

An invasion of the North Country starts today. Armed with skis and poles, thousands of skiers are heading for their favorite snow spots by train, plane, bus, automobile and bike, taking advantage of the long Washington's Birthday week-end.

Reports from all schuss centers state that every available room has been engaged for weeks; in fact, sleeping in bathtubs may be in order — and we do not mean sitzmarks. If you cannot find a bed, try placing your skis across two chairs and recline on these slats. Do not wax the boards, or you may "fall out of bed."

A fleet of snow trains will schuss from the North Station in a cloud of swirling smoke, and it is this writer's opinion that all records will be broken for crowds conveyed. The Boston & Maine will operate scores of week-end trains and there will be two special one-day trains, Sunday and Monday.

GIBSON RACE AT NO. CONWAY

Winter carnivals are being held this week-end at Jaffrey and Bradford, N. H., while the annual ball of the Winnepesaukee Ski Club will be "contested" at the Recreation Building at the Belknap mountains area as well. Another feet-fest in the form of the weekly Skitillion of the Jackson Ski and Outing Club takes place tonight at the town hall.

At North Conway, N. H., the Gibson Trophy Race, postponed from Feb. 1, will be run tomorrow on Cranmore Mountain as a combined slalom and downhill ski race, sanctioned by the U. S. E. A. S. A. This contest will be a real test of stamina combined with skill and speed.

The course will begin at the 2052-foot high summit of Cranmore Mountain, winding down the newly-opened Little Kandahar slopes through a series of flags and gates to the half-way point on the Big Ben Trail, then continuing as a downhill race over the remainder of the trail.

MARRIED COUPLE'S SLALOM

Toni Matt, national downhill and combined champion, holds two legs on the Gibson Trophy and is out to retire the big cup this year.

Boston Schneehaserl Ski Club, the feminine auxiliary of the Schuss-verein, is staging a novel invitation race on the holiday at Cranmore. This event is to be a married couple's giant slalom, teams to consist of husband and wives, who will battle it out over a course set by Hannes Schneider.

Decision to Denner May Bring Rematch

By JACK CONWAY

Abe Denner, graduate of the All-America amateur boxing tournaments, is on the fistic heights today as a result of his victory over Jackie Wilson, NBA featherweight champion, in a 10-round bout at a Boston Boxing Club show before 2909 fans at Mechanics Building.

It was a split decision with Judges Al Sumberg and Doc Colmer voting for Denner and Referee Johnny Martin casting his ballot for Wilson. A draw would have been a good decision, and would have been more acceptable to most of the spectators than was the verdict in favor of Denner.

EYE PARTLY CLOSED

On my score card, each boxer won five rounds. I gave Denner the first four sessions and the sixth frame, while the fifth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth rounds saw Wilson out front. The NBA title holder won the rounds he carried by wide margins.

Denner had his left eye partly closed during the closing sessions of the tussle, and this handicapped his boxing.

On the form Denner showed during the first four rounds it looked as if he would win easily. He kept his left hand popping into Wilson's face, and when the occasion offered he dropped short right hand blows to the jaw.

The NBA title holder didn't look like much during these rounds.

Wilson got going in the fifth round. He beat Denner to the punch in a battle of left hands, and also belted the local boy around the body with hard left and right hand blows.

Denner rallied in the sixth session, and by fast, clever boxing edged his opponent.

It was a parade for Wilson during the last four rounds. He was first all of the time, and repeatedly scored with left jabs and hooks. Wilson also landed some hard right hand punches.

Denner's left eye was partly closed by Wilson's punches. Abe rallied at times, but he lacked the follow through to stop the surge of the NBA title holder.

REMATCH LOOMS

In view of the dispute over the decision, it is likely Matchmaker Jack O'Brien will sign up Denner and Wilson for a return meeting. The West End youngster should now have more confidence in his ability. If he could maintain the pace he set in the first four rounds against the title holder, he wouldn't have any difficulty winning.

It was an overweight match and so Wilson's title was not at stake.

There was a gross gate of $3715 and a net of $3373.

In a slashing eight-round semi-final, which followed the main event, Young Byron, Roxbury, 139, took a split decision over Leo Dulmaine, Marlboro, 139, gathering sufficient points in the early rounds to withstand a late bombardment and annex the award.

Larry Pacino, 155, Roxbury, unbeaten as a professional, kept climbing up the middleweight ladder by stopping Joe Gans, 159, Willimantic, Ct., in five rounds.

In the curtain raiser, Dave Horblitt, 181, Boston, and Joe Piaster, 182, Worcester, went four rounds to a draw.

Eddie De Angelis, 127, Revere, scored enough points for a narrow six round win over Billy Marcus, 129, Hartford.

Sal Cesario, 163, North End, won a unanimous verdict over Sam Shumway, 163½, Webster, in six rounds.

B. C. Freshmen Sextet Hopes to End Unbeaten

The Boston College freshmen hockey squad will attempt to present Bob Mee, its youthful coach, an undefeated, untied season when they take on the Greater Boston League All-Stars second team and the freshmen team of Boston University next week.

Mee, who will be inducted into the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps Tuesday, is coaching his first hockey team while completing his senior year at Boston College.

Probably the greatest defenseman ever to wear the Maroon and Gold, the husky Arlington youngster, who played with Olympics at the conclusion of his junior hockey season, has been ineligible this winter.

Mentor Mees' squad, studded with former scholastic greats, has roared past Andover Academy, St. John's Prep, Stoneham High and the Boston University frosh, averaging better than 10 goals per contest while posting four straight wins.

Ed Burns (Arlington), Tom Dolan (Springfield), Jack Cunniff (Wellesley)—the first line; John Corcoran (Newton), Jack Driscoll (Boston College High School)—the starting defense; Jimmy Ronayne, goalie; and Bob Mason (Quincy and B. C. High) and Jack Harvey (Arlington)—line spares are the backbone of the Eaglet frosh squad.

The Boston College Frosh-G. B. I. All-Stars Second team game will be a preliminary to the annual contest between the Greater Boston League All-Star First Team and Catholic High of Montreal Monday's holiday afternoon at the Garden. The Eaglets' game with B. U. will be played Tuesday night at the Arena.

DIAMOND RING FINAL TRYOUT ON MONDAY

Tony DeGregorio, North End, has filed his entry for the fourth and final elimination round of the Diamond Ring Tournament to be held next Monday night, Washington's Birthday, at the Arena.

This will be the last opportunity for the local boys to battle for a place in the grand finals.

Bouts will be staged in all eight classes, from flyweights to heavyweights. The show is open to all registered A. A. U. boxers in the N. E. Ass'n, and all entries must be made in writing and filed with Tom Kanaly at the Arena.

The winners of Monday's bouts, inaddition to the victors in the three previous elimination shows, will clash at the Arena on March 2. Winning a title on March 2 will automatically qualify the boxer for the N. E. A. A. A. U. championships, to be held at the Garden on March 23.

For those who do not win honors in the Diamond Ring Finals, there will be two elimination shows for the New Englands, to be sponsored by the "Irish" club at the Arena on March 9 and 16. Only the boys who win N. E. A.A.A.U. Championships will be eligible to compete in the Nationals at the Garden on April 13, 14 and 17.

Among the entries now on file are Walter Kijanka, Lowell, and Steve Pelletino, Cambridge, 112s; Louis Ariello, E. Boston, and James Lyman, Lowell, 118s; Joe Monteiro, Wareham, and Bob Stoddard, Roxbury, 126s; James Sauer, Cambridge, Stanley Locke, Rockland, Johnnie Rizzo, E. DAVE FREEMAN NAMED BEST IN U. S. BADMINTON RATINGS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Dave Freeman, Pasadena, Cal., and Thelma Kingsbury of England, are the badminton rulers of the United States' 1941 rankings of the National Badminton Association Show. No. 2 in the men's division went to Carl W. Loveday of Montclair, N. J., and No. 2 in the women's to Evelyn Boldrick, San Diego, Cal.

The rankings were released today by Millard C. Dorntge, Buffalo, national publicity chairman of the association.

Freeman, a pre-medical student, has been defeated only once in singles since 1939. He scored a clean sweep in the national tournament last year, winning the singles and teaming up to capture the doubles and mixed doubles titles.

Miss Kingsbury, now residing in Oakland, Cal., will relinquish her top place after the national meet in April, because she is ineligible to defend her title under the six-year residence rule for non-citizens.
